Kenneth Wills, 34, Killed as Autos Sideswipe; Councilman Escapes Injury.

PINNED UNDER MACHINE

Victim and Two Companions Thrown Out of Vehicle When It Turns Over.

The death of a Mansfield man, fatally injured when his automobile collided with another last night about four miles southwest of the city on the Millsborough road, raised Richland county's death score to five in the past twelve days. Another man was seriously injured this morning when struck by an auto three miles northeast of the city on U. S. Route 42.

Kenneth Wills, 34, of 393 Wayne street, died at 1:22 a. m. in General hospital from internal injuries received shortly after 9:30 p. m. last night when his car and another driven by George C. Kyle, 63 Penn avenue, Fourth ward councilman, sideswiped each other.

Wills was pinned under his auto which upset after the collision, throwing him and two companions out of the vehicle.

His companions, Stella Culp, 27, and Mrs. Catherine Sheetz, 62, both of 262 North Main street, were cut and bruised. Councilman Kyle escaped injury.

Deputy Sheriffs John Whitcomb and Clarence Gongwer said the accident occurred at the top of a knoll which partially obscured the drivers' views while approaching each other.

Wills' death was the 19th in the county since the beginning of the year. Only ten persons had been killed up to the same date in 1940.

Prosecutor Harold Lutz, who is already investigating three other fatal accidents and has asked an indictment for manslaughter in another, was scheduled to question Kyle and the two women riding with Wills today at 1 p. m.

In one of the four other recent traffic deaths, Milo W. Thompson, 30, Ashland, was bound over to the county grand jury yesterday on a $2,000 bond on second degree manslaughter charges in connection

Hopkins Declares U. S. Building Ships to Carry Aid Anywhere In World to Democracies Fighting Hitler

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The United States is going to build enough ships "to bring goods into the United Kingdom and into every theater in the world where democracies are fighting Hitler," Harry Hopkins, supervisor of the U. S. lend-lease program said today.

Here on an official visit Hopkins told a press conference he estimated United States shipbuilding yards would build and make ready for sea 6,000,000 tons of merchantmen during 1941 and at least 6,000,000 tons during the next year.

"We are going to see that the food is in those ships and that adequate amounts of cheese and dairy products, fats and pork products get over here," he said.

Hopkins said American flag ships could, of course, go to Iceland, but he declined to discuss whether trans-shipment of war supplies to Allied merchantmen there was contemplated on a large scale.

"The president has said our goods are going to arrive," he said. "All I can say is that we are going to do it."

And, he added, "we are going to protect our ships."

To questions whether American merchantmen would send supplies to China, Malaya and Singapore, Hopkins answered only that "every ship of ours that moves anywhere in the world has one purpose, the war effort, and it is done

MANSFIELD MAN DIES AS HORSES STAGE RUNAWAY

Joseph Schmidt, 72, Fatally Injured When Thrown From Wagon on Farm.

Thrown from a hay wagon by a runaway team of horses, Joseph Schmidt, 72, of 281 Newman street, was killed yesterday afternoon at the Julia Valach farm southwest of Lexington in Morrow county.

Dr. Frank Sweeney, acting Morrow county coroner, said that Mr. Schmidt sustained a fractured skull.

The team stopped shortly afterward.

The team was going down hill with the loaded hay wagon when Mr. Schmidt lost control of the horses. The team ran several hundred yards across a field, losing the load of hay and later throwing Mr. Schmidt from the wagon as it passed through a ditch.

Mr. Schmidt, who was employed as a farm hand on the Valach farm, was born in Hungary in 1869, coming to this country 37 years ago.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Nagy, of Mansfield, with whom he made his home.

The body was taken to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p. m. Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, of the First Lutheran church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

CONGRESS SEEN FAVORING ARMY EXTENSION PLAN

Senator Says Sentiment For Emergency Declaration on Increase.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt said today that he would send a special message to congress next week, supporting the army's drive for legislation to retain selectees, national guardsmen and reserves in service for the duration of the emergency.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The army's proposal that congress provide for extended service of selectees by formally declaring a national emergency was reported today to be receiving serious consideration in some legislative quarters.

One administration senator, who asked to remain anonymous, said this method, which encountered widespread objection when first suggested recently, now appeared to be meeting an increasingly favorable response.

This situation he attributed to the fact that enactment of a simple resolution declaring the existence of an emergency would pass to the president the specific duty of ordering the selectees, National Guardsmen and Reserve officers to remain in uniform longer than the year for which they were called.

Present law provides the president with authority to take such action only when congress declares an emergency.

By such procedure the legislators would be relieved of the necessity of voting on legislation to amend the present selective service, National Guard acts and Reserve officers act in order to re-

Weather Enters War Picture On Red Front

London Reports Soviets Counter-Attack Against Drive Toward Leningrad and Moscow; Supply Pinch Felt In Both Italy and Germany.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—Adolf Hitler was reported here today to have dispatched an SOS to Japan appealing for an immediate offensive against Russia in eastern Siberia. Responsible British quarters took the view that a Japanese assault upon Vladivostok is now probable.

(By Associated Press)

Rain drenched the bloody Russian-German war front today, threatening to bog down Adolf Hitler's mechanized armies at a critical moment in the 27-day-old campaign, but the Nazi high command asserted that "gigantic battles on the eastern front are developing in our favor in all directions."

By contrast, the Soviet high command declared that, after violent all-night fighting, the Red armies were still holding all vital positions with "no significant changes" in the vast struggle of 9,000,000 men.

Authoritative sources in London said the Nazi juggernaut drives toward Leningrad and Moscow had "not been completely halted," but that the Russians were counter-attacking fiercely in several sectors.

Dispatches from Berlin said German columns driving toward Leningrad, Russia's second biggest city, had captured a Russian airplane depot with 1,500 planes, and also seized 4,000 horses, 1,000 trucks and 1,000 prisoners amid heavy losses to the Soviets.

Beyond this claim, the Germans made no specific report of fresh gains, asserting broadly that a sweeping Nazi victory was "in sight."

DNB, the official German news agency, said a "whole battalion of women" in the Red army forces defending the route to Leningrad had been captured.

In London, official quarters said Germany's armies and air force were threatened with an acute shortage of oil and fuel if the Russian campaign continues through September.

Already, it was said, Nazi supplies have been "severely cut" by invasion of the U. S. S. R. and by Soviet aerial bombardment of the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania, and supplies captured in the Nazi sweep across western Europe have been used up.

Evidence that a similiar pinch was being felt in Italy was seen in a Fascist government order today cancelling all gasoline rations for private automobiles, effective Oct. 1, because of the "growing difficulty" in getting rubber and gasoline through the British blockade.

Machinery for the house-to-house collection of old aluminum pots and pans in Mansfield for national defense will be set up at a meeting of the special collection committee today at 7:30 p. m. in the American Legion home.

DEFERMENT SEEN

Congress Set to Act Quickly on Exemption of Men 28.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Speedy enactment of legislation to defer all men 28 years old and over from the draft was predicted today as conferees from the house and senate met to iron out differences between the two houses in the bill.

Those in charge of the legislation said the house version of the draft deferment section, which mandatorily exempts all men who have reached their 28th birthday by last July 1, will probably be accepted.

As the measure passed the senate, the administration was simply granted permission to make such deferments.

TWO KILLED IN FREAK ACCIDENT

AKRON —(INS)— Two Cleveland children were dead today, victims of a freak accident on a toboggan slide at Sandy Park Beach near here.

Marvin Bobey, 8, and Patricia Steigelmeyer, 14, were fatally injured when a loosened steel rail on the slide pierced their bodies as they slid down the slide at the Sandy Beach swimming spot.

According to witnesses, another boy had ridden down the slide just before the two victims and seeing the rail loose shouted a warning to a lifeguard. The guard, Ralph Hendrix, in turn tried to stop the children from starting their slide, but he was too late.

FDR ORDERS SEA LANE PROTECTED

Stresses Fact That Navy Has Orders To Guard U. S., Iceland Route.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today emphasized that the United States navy has orders from him as commander-in-chief to keep the sea lane between the United States and Iceland protected against attack or threat of attack.

In discussing the U. S. occupation of Iceland, the president added for direct quotation:

"I certainly am not going to tell you about the movement of troops. I am not going to pull a Wheeler."

The chief executive was referring to Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D) Mont., who was criticized by the White House for making an advance prediction that the United States intended to take over the strategic sub-Arctic outpost.

It is felt by all military authorities, who have access to the best possible information concerning developments abroad, the president said, that the occupation of Iceland by an unfriendly power would be a serious blow to national defense of the United States. It was for that reason

Writer Tells Inside Story Of Strange War In Near East

By HAROLD PETERS

(UP Staff Correspondent)

BEIRUT, Lebanon, July 17.—(U.P.) — (Delayed) — Great Britain and the Free French won a strange war in Syria and Lebanon.

It is possible to tell now the inside story as I saw and heard it here at the general headquarters of the Vichy French during the weeks the British imperial and Free French troops were moving slowly to victory.

Apparently the Germans at first intended to give the Vichy French active aid; Vichy warships fired their shells into the air instead of at the British fleet; Gen. Henri Dentz, the Vichy commander in chief changed his residence each night because of popular feeling against him; all during the war, Free French agents were active in Vichy territory.

I was told by credible persons but could not confirm, that Gen. Dentz shot his chauffeur on suspicion that he had revealed his sleeping quarters. In any event, the chauffeur disappeared, and was not replaced, after there had been several demonstrations against Dentz and British airplane bombs had landed uncomfortably close to his headquarters.

Reliable figures, disclosed by Free French agents who remained here during the campaign, were that the Vichy forces totaled about 45,000 men of whom only half saw action. Of these, 10,000 were Syrians and Lebanese, 15,000 African colonials, 5,000 foreign

USO Campaign Goes Over Top, Total of $9,267 Subscribed

Mansfield and Richland county's United Service Organization chalked up a total of $9,267.65 in its drive to raise a $6,500 quota toward a nation-wide goal of $10,765,000 to maintain wholesome recreation centers in defense training areas, final reports showed when the campaign ended last night.

The drive went over the top by $2,767.65, according to George H. Smith, campaign chairman.

Of the total raised, the committee voted to send $6,600 to national headquarters in Washington, and retain the balance, after expenses amounting to $200 are deducted, in the Richland county U.S.O. treasury to apply on the next quota. The balance amounts to $2,467.65.

Reports showed that $6,030 had been collected through the house to house canvas in wards and precincts and also through special gifts which included contributions by the majority of the factories.

Westinghouse gave $2,200, the largest contribution made by any industry. Employes gave $1,100 and this amount was matched by the industry. Gifts of other industries totalled $251.

Neighboring communities participated in the drive, Butler, Lexington and Lucas each exceeded their quotas, Butler by $20 and the other communities by $8.

Butler raised $71; Lexington $138; Lucas $58, Bellville, $136; Plymouth, $134, and Shiloh, $7.65.

Madison township, with no quota, raised $227.

RAIN THREATENS TO BOG GERMANS IN SOVIET DRIVE

London Reports Red Counter-Thrust In Leningrad, Moscow Campaign.

army troops as violently assailing the flanks of the German drive toward Moscow, offering suicidal resistance at many strong points behind the Nazi spearheads and conducting a ceaseless guerrilla warfare.

A Soviet communique again spoke of heavy fighting during the night in the Bobruisk sector, on the south side of the Smolensk salient where the Germans have crashed through the center of the Stalin line.

It was in the Bobruisk area that Moscow reported Soviet troops had opened a powerful counter-offensive, hurling the Germans back across the Dnieper river for more than 19 miles.

The main fight was reported by the Soviets still to be in the Smolensk area, 280 miles west of Moscow, in the Pskov-Porkhov section 150 miles southwest of Leningrad, and the Novograd-Volynski sector, 130 miles west of Kiev.

In addition, the Russians said serious fighting again had developed in Bessarabia. A German report from Bucharest said the Bessarabian towns of Hotin, Soroca and Orhei, as well as the capital, Chininau, had been occupied by German and Rumanian troops.

The Germans pictured Kiev as shorn of its last protective fortresses, many of which were reported defended by suicide squads hidden in three-story deep subterranean vaults.

Polotsk and Smolensk were reported in German hands.

At sea, the Germans reported the new Soviet destroyer Tashkent had been damaged severely by German naval units, while the Soviet command said a German submarine had been sunk by a mine in the arctic. The Russians said 98 German planes had been destroyed in the past two days, and announced their own losses at 23 planes.

A warning against United States intervention in the war came last night from Generalissimo Franco of Spain, in an address to the national Falangist council. He said United States intervention would align two continents against one another in a lengthy ruinous conflict.

In the German-British air war, waves of Nazi planes dealt one of the sharpest blows in weeks upon a northeastern English town, doing much damage and causing heavy casualties. At the same time the RAF roared over the channel in its steady offensive against industrial targets in western Germany and German-occupied territory.

with the death of 13-year-old Marion Richard Pryor Tuesday afternoon. Thompson was driver of the car which struck down the boy near his home on Route 42.

Investigation is being continued into the traffic deaths of Mrs. Hilda Greenwald, 32, Cleveland, fatally injured last Friday; of Raymond Bricker, 37, Shelby, R. D. 4, killed in a collision north of the city late Saturday; and in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Springer, killed by an auto as she stood at the intersection of North Adams and East Fourth streets, on July 5th.

In another Mansfield area accident early today, William Edwards, 60, a transient, suffered a fractured pelvis, fractured left leg and cuts about the head when he was struck by an auto on U. S. Route 42 about three and a half miles northeast of Mansfield.

Howard Divelbiss, 45, Youngstown, driver of the car, told state highway patrolmen that Edwards ran into the side of the car. Divelbiss said that Edwards was walking along the road and suddenly ran towards the center.

Riding with Divelbiss were his wife Twanette 41, their son, Howard, jr., and Nellie Isaly, 52, all of Youngstown. None of the passengers was injured.

Wills was born in Mansfield on March 26, 1907. He was an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for the past 12 years. He was preceded in death by his wife and child.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Charles Yunker; two brothers, Russell and Howard Wills; and three sisters, Mrs. Rudolph Burggraf, Mrs. Henry Schmidt and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, all of Mansfield.

ceding Konoye government, was out.

He was succeeded by a retired vice admiral, Teijiro Toyoda, whose foreign policy outlook is little known.

The Japanese press forecast a considered, cautious foreign policy and the Tokyo stock market seemed unaffected by the cabinet changes.

Toyoda had been minister of commerce and industry in the second Konoye cabinet, which resigned two days ago. He took that post after a reshuffle last April 4 which lifted him from the post of vice minister of navy. Today he became not only foreign minister but minister of overseas affairs as well. The overseas portfolio had been held by Kiyoshi Akita.

Toyoda ended 35 years of navy service to enter the second Konoye cabinet. He will be 56 years old in August. He was graduated from the naval academy in 1905, but his real career began with dispatch to London as naval attache to the embassy there. He was a delegate to the London naval conference.

He has been a member of the naval staff college, chief of the "general affairs" section of the naval technical department, commander in chief of the Sasebo naval station, director of the naval construction department and director of naval aviation headquarters.

Ousted, besides Matsuoka, were Isao Kawada, finance minister; Tsuneo Kanemitsu, welfare; Gotaro Ogawa, railways, and Kiyoshi Akita, overseas affairs.

The last three were party men. Their removal meant that the government had been "cleansed 100 per cent" as Domei, Japanese news agency expressed it, of "party influence."

(Konoye has led the movement for elimination of Japanese political parties. He has instituted instead a campaign for a "new national structure" which, aside from being partyless, is still a vague totalitarian concept so far as general public knowledge goes.)

Domei said that Kanemitsu, Ogawa and Akita had been regarded in the old cabinet as "more or less representing the interests of defunct political groups."

See Increase In Pacific Tension

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The formation of what appeared to be strictly a "war cabinet" in Japan held the prospect today of increasing tension in the Pacific but whether it presaged an immediate military move remained uncertain here.

Officials withheld comment on the new predominantly military government under Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye until closer analysis of all its membership.

The elimination of the pro-Axis leader, Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, indicated to some observers that the new government might not be bound so closely to Germany and instead would pursue a more independent course and one strictly in Japan's interests. Any international move by the new government would have the effect, however, of helping the Axis by diverting Anglo-American attention to the Pacific.

over the campaign and thanked both individuals and organizations that had aided in making the drive a success.

Ray M. Calene was chairman of special gifts and the American Legion, represented by R. M. James, was in charge of organization contributions.

The campaign opened June 16 with headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. and was continued two weeks longer than scheduled to give factories and workers additional time in which to contribute.

Ralph Chapman is secretary of the organization and Dean Eckert, treasurer. Jane Williams was in charge of campaign publicity. Mrs. John Pierce directed the house to house solicitation.

The president pointed out that having occupied Iceland it would be foolish to leave the garrison there to its own devices. He said it was "ABC stuff" that the line of communication between the mainland and the outpost must be kept open.

Local citizens have been "taking a pot-shot at Hitler," for several days by tossing their pots, pans, and aluminum gadgets of all kinds in the snow-fence enclosure in Central park in a "warm-up" campaign.

All transportation companies in Mansfield are co-operating in the collections next week and Boy Scouts will ride on the trucks and be on hand at the theaters to assist in loading the in-take.

The First Ward will be covered Monday and the following wards on consecutive days until collections are completed.

County collections will be made under the auspices of county commissioners and township trustees, County Agricultural Agent George E. Ganyard, announced.

On rural mail routes, residents are asked to put their donations by mail boxes no later than Thursday, July 24. A truck will cover all routes on that day, and will bring the metal to Mansfield.

Ganyard also announced chairmen of the campaign in Richland county villages. They are as follows: Lexington, Frank Grieb-ling; Bellville, J. B. Kochheiser (Boy Scouts will pick up aluminum in Bellville today and it will be brought to Mansfield late this afternoon by truck); Butler, Lee F. Beveridge (same system as Bellville, same day); Shiloh, David E. Bushey, and Plymouth, Don Einsel. Shiloh will collect on July 24 and 25 and Plymouth will collect on July 25.

In Lucas, the collection was made last Tuesday, under the direction of L. F. Smith, chairman. Boy Scouts collected the metal.

Mayor Says He'll Complete Interviews With 9 Men Who Are Eligible.

approval of the payments of five regular policemen's salaries from the parking meter funds. Council provided that the money be appropriated to pay ten policemen's salaries from the parking meter fund at a special meeting Monday night.

Basing their action on the mayor's own figures showing that $30,000 had been collected in the meters' eight months of operation, council provided that the five new traffic men and five regular policemen be paid from the meter funds until the end of the year. Council, in ordering the transfer, said that a large part of the regular policemen's duties is connected with traffic control. Receipts from parking meters are to be used only for traffic purposes.

The mayor said today that he had interviewed eight of the nine eligible men and had made tentative decision of four members of the new squad. He expected to interview the ninth man and to be able to decide on the five appointments this afternoon.

The mayor does not, however, disapprove the "freezing" of $3,000 in the license revenue which will be used for street repair or improvement work.

in the lottery but the number did not apply here. However, the second number, 98, did.

Local Board 1 started off with a patriotically named draftee and ended with another. Both names were reminiscent of the first American patriots of the Revolutionary War and were only one number apart in serial listings.

No. 98 made George Washington Kessie No. 1 man in Board 1's listings. Last to be drawn was No. 97 owned by Robert Benjamin Franklin. Twelfth number to be called was held by Thomas Jefferson Clements. His address was also consistent with the Revolutionary war theme being 119 LaFayette avenue.

The first three men in each of the three local boards are: Board 1, George Washington Kessie, 333 Sturges avenue, No. 98; Jerald S. Ruckman, 465 West Fourth street, No. 39; and Galin A. Myers, 157 Vennum avenue, No. 74.

Board 2: Valmer E. Mann, Mansfield, R. D. 3, No. 98; Daniel J. Stehle, Mansfield, R. D. 1, No. 39; and Ruben Sorg, 239 East Arch street, No. 74.

Board 3: Raymond P. Thrush, Bellville, R D. 2, No. 98; Richard F. Holmes, Mansfield, R. D. 2, No. 39; and Paul W. Palmer, Ontario, No. 74.

Hundreds of other 21'ers all over the country were affected by the drawings of little pink capsules from the lottery fishbowl just as the Richland county men.

The first local 21'ers will probably be inducted into service around Sept 21 along with regular draftees heading the local board's lists.

It was all settled in a national lottery in Washington last night in the departmental auditorium. There, a blindfolded selectee who has already earned his sergeant's stripes dipped his hand into a glass jar of 800 small capsules and drew out one. The number it contained was 196. Two hours and 26 minutes later the drawing was finished by another selectee who took out the last capsule, holding number 630.

Today selective service headquarters put its whole force to work checking and rechecking a master list of the 800 numbers drawn and by the week-end copies of this list will be sent out to the country's 6,500 local draft boards.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, deputy selective service director, said in opening last night's ceremony that they and the older group of men signed up last year constituted America's hope "for protection now and security for the future." Hershey's address to the jam-packed auditorium audience was brief and as he finished he turned to Navy Secretary Knox to draw the first number.

Knox, however, said he would prefer to step aside in favor of the senior non-commissioned officer among 50 selectees brought in from nearby army camps to assist in the drawing. In response to a call from Hershey, Staff Sergt. Robert W. Shackleton of New York City, stationed at Fort Dix, N. J., stepped forward with a snappy salute and a broad grin and pulled out 196.

Shortly after it was flashed over the country, city and hamlet began to report.

After government officials and other dignitaries had drawn one number each the work was finished by the detail of selectees. In comparison with the 18-hour task of drawing 9,000 numbers last October, the procedure was brief and simple.

Shipboard Romance + + + + + +

Sylvia Taylor

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER XI.

She watched over the rail as Miss Pringle disappeared into a taxi. She felt suddenly lonely. Miss Pringle had been her counsellor ever since the ship left New York. She would miss her on the return trip. But then, Doris thought drearily, life seems to be a series of giving up the people you like.

Midnight. The ship's whistle blew shrilly as it moved slowly from the harbor of Rio de Janeiro! City of a thousand enchantments, it was called by those who loved it. And a thousand heartaches, Doris added. It stretched now before her like a rapidly disappearing magic carpet. Like a friend waving, farewell, its pearly lights flickered. There was little gayety on board. Passengers watched in thoughtful silence as they had their last view of one of the most beautiful harbors in the world.

"Good-bye!" Doris whispered, feeling a strange ache in her heart at the departure from this strange country. It was like leaving a dream, an enchanted world. She had first seen the city in the rosy glow of dawn, and was leaving it now at midnight, a black and starless midnight which seemed to her strangely symbolic . . .

Tears trembled in her eyes as a feeling of futility swept into her heart. It was good-bye to romance! To love . . .

But suddenly in this silent, lonely moment, Doris felt a hand over hers. Turning quickly, she saw that it was Jimmy Allen's hand.

"Oh, Jimmy!" Doris cried as though she was afraid the sound of her voice might make him disappear.

It seemed a long moment before he answered. A confused moment with the ship stealing quietly out of Rio, the silent passengers, the black water blending into the blacker night. Jimmy Allen was standing beside her! He had come back to her, back into her life again, from nowhere. Doris caught her breath when the ship's whistle sounded and brought her suddenly to earth.

"Surprised to see me?" Jimmy inquired but his tone was not casual.

Doris forced herself to be cruel. "Very! Is your wife with you?"

She saw his mouth tighten with anger. "Is that necessary?"

The ship rolled a little as it left the harbor of Rio de Janeiro and nosed into the sea. Doris reached for the rail to support herself. A breeze had sprung up and she shivered.

"You're cold," Jimmy said. "Let's go inside and have a drink."

Across a table in the bar they faced each other. "All right," he said curtly. "We're going to stop playing games. I've been chasing you all over South America. Why have you been evading me?"

Even his anger was sweet to her. Her heart softened. "You're wrong, Jimmy. I wasn't avoiding you. Today I went to your hotel to see if you were still there . . ."

"He brightened like a small boy. "You did? But, darling . . ."

"Look Jimmy," she said miserably. "Let's get things straightened out. I can't stand this uncertainty any longer."

"You crazy kid," he said tenderly. "Why do you think I'm on this ship? I found out from the steamship line you were sailing, because I know once I found you on board you couldn't run away."

"But you knew I was in Buenos Aires."

"Honey, will you stop interrupting me? Sure I knew you were in Buenos Aires. I took a plane down there to find you but every time I went to the hotel you were coming or leaving with some slick-haired Argentine."

"Ricardo Torres was wonderful to me," Doris protected. "You have no right to say anything against him."

"I have every right!" Jimmy said, his voice raised.

Other passengers were staring at them.

"Please," Doris begged. "Everyone's listening."

He grinned, "Will you go out on deck then?"

She agreed. And when they reached the deserted deck, Jimmy sank into a deck chair next to hers and took her hand.

"Now are you going to listen to me?" he demanded.

His fingers were like steel around her own. His blue eyes burned. "I love you, Doris. I admit I've acted like a fool, but I know what I want now."

As their lips met her tears fell against his coat. The flood of longing, of suppressed emotion was suddenly uncontrollable.

"Jimmy!" she wept. "Jimmy!"

He cradled her head against his shoulder. "You poor little kid. I don't blame you for not trusting me. I've been a heel."

She wiped her eyes. "It doesn't matter now."

"But it does! I want you to know the whole story. I've been trying to tell you for weeks. You've got to know."

She sat up dabbing at her wet eyes. "We can't act like this. What in the world will people think!"

"What do we care, darling?"

She smoothed her hair and smiled. "And I thought I was through with shipboard romance!"

"You've just begun, sweetheart!" Jimmy Allen assured her.

They talked for almost two hours while Jimmy smoked endless cigarets and Doris listened quietly to all he had to say.

"My wife was to get a divorce in Reno. It should be all over by now. Do you believe that, Doris?"

"Of course," she said, nodding childishly. "You know I believe you."

"When I first looked at you I thought you were the loveliest thing I'd ever seen. Later, when I knew that it was turning into something more than that, I was afraid. I didn't want to fall in love wtih you, Doris."

"Why not?" she asked. "You must have known how I felt."

His young face was hard, his eyes unfathomable. "I have reasons," he said, "good reasons not to trust any woman."

She longed to ask for an explanation but instinct kept her silent.

"I couldn't escape it," Jimmy continued. "When I go to Rio, I knew I was in love with you. Then you got off the ship without saying good-bye, so I decided you were fed up with me. I didn't blame you either . . ."

"You seem to have forgotten, Jimmy, that someone else met you in Rio . . ."

He smiled. "So that's it! You saw her?"

"I couldn't help it," Doris admitted.

He kissed her lightly on the tip of her nose. "That was the wife of my best friend. I stayed with them in Rio."

A great weight lifted suddenly from her heart.

"I suppose you want to know about that other girl, too?" he went on as if reading her mind.

"You don't have to tell me anything that you don't want to, Jimmy."

"I want to," he said quickly, "because I want you to trust me. That girl was May Whittier. We used to go with the same crowd back in Chicago. She just happened to be in Rio so we had a little fun together. That's all there was to it. She's just an old friend. Will you believe me?"

"I believe you," Doris said, closing her heart to all doubt.

He took her hands and held them tightly. "My wife went to Reno before I sailed. The divorce will be all over this week. Do you understand now, darling?"

"I understand," she repeated.

"I didn't know," he said slowly, "that there were girls like you in the world. So sweet and unsophisticated. You see my life has been spent with the other kind. I had forgotten what real values were."

"We come from different worlds" Doris said gently.

"I'm tired of my world, Doris. I'm tired of the things money can buy. I want something of my own."

"I know what you mean. That's what I want too."

He looked at his watch. "It's almost 2 o'clock, sweet. We'd better get some sleep. But at least I know I'll see you tomorrow. You can't run away again."

She pressed her cheek against his shoulder. "I'll never run away again, Jimmy. I couldn't."

There was no one else to see as he drew her to him. "You're sweet, Doris! You're all mine, all mine, now! Do you understand?"

She shut her eyes against the thrill of his kiss. This was love! Worth any price, any sacrifice. There was nothing else but this in all the world . . .

Cautiously Doris opened the door of her cabin, not wishing to disturb her companion who had boarded the ship at Rio. She undressed quickly in the darkness and slipped into her bed. Sleep seemed impossible when there was so much to remember. Her mind treasured each word he had spoken. He loved her! His wife had planned to get a divorce before he even met Doris! By this time it would be granted and he would be free.

The next day dawned in a blaze of tropical glory. Doris rose early, donned white, tailored slacks and went to breakfast. Her cabinmate was sleeping soundly so she had no chance to talk with her or learn what kind of person might be beneath the mound of bedclothes. Doris hoped that she would be as nice as Miss Pringle.

Gayly she went to the breakfast table and saw with delight that Jimmy was sitting next to her.

"Hello, sweet!" he whispered. "I had myself transferred to your table. I'm not going to even let you eat out of my sight."

Doris unfolded her napkin demurely, but her heart thrilled to the possessiveness in his voice. She noticed a ripple of interest sweep the rest of the passengers at their table but she did not care.

"You're beautiful," Jimmy said in an undertone. "Do you know it?"

She laughed. Eat your breakfast," she commanded.

The morning seemed to have been especially ordered for two in love. The sunny decks had never seemed so romantic. The tiled swimming pool was delightful. The 10:30 boullion, ambrosia.

"It's almost too good to be true," Doris told Jimmy as they lounged by the pool on huge, brightly colored mats.

"You haven't changed your mind?"

"Not a chance, darling," Doris assured him.

Their fingertips touched.

"Nothing can happen now, can it, Doris?"

"Nothing!" She sat up and stretched her arms in the bright sunshine. Her hair rippled over her shoulders like liquid gold.

"I'll be jealous of every man who even looks at you," Jimmy said fiercely.

She loved to hear him say these things. Loved to know that she belonged to him. And she could see the sincerity in his eyes, hear it in his voice. She hated to think that once she had believed him a playboy, saying these things to every woman. She told herself now that he had never lied to her and she would believe in him utterly from now on.

But as Doris adjusted her dark glasses and settled herself more comfortably she saw a girl walking by the side of the pool. A stunning red-haired girl. In an instant Doris knew that it was the same one who had dined with Jimmy in Dio. The one he had told her was "an old friend" from Chicago. But Doris knew by the glitter of jealously in those green eyes that May Whittier considered herself much more than an old friend.

Ignoring Doris entirely, she went to Jimmy's side. "Hi, darling!" she cried. "I didn't want you to be lonesome, so I decided to come along . . ."

Pacific Coast Farmers Turn Into Rainmakers

PORTLAND, Ore. —(INS)— Proverbially rainy Oregon still lacks all the moisture farmers would like—as a result west coast farmers are turning into artificial rainmakers.

With the dry season lasting nearly all summer, farmers with land adjacent to rivers or creeks are using gas and electric powered pumps to sprinkle crop and pasture lands.

A rancher buys a network of pipes which has perforations. He moves it to any part of a tract needing water and the the pump does the rest. Farmers using the system estimate the sprinkling system of irrigation pays for itself in two years.

FORD TEXTS

DEARBORN, Mich. —(INS)— Of the unusual products made at the Ford Motor company's Rouge plant, the least known, a school textbook, has assumed importance in the national defense effort. The Ford print shop ordinarily publishes 20,000 texts a year, designed to train youth for the skilled mechanical trades. Because of the recent expansions in vocational training courses, that number is expected to be more than doubled this year.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JULY 18, 1941.

The price of quinine had advanced so rapidly that it is becoming increasingly difficult to take the bitter with the sweet.

So far as can be judged from the golf grounds and the roads leading to vacation places, there isn't much hysteria in this country.

It takes all kinds of people to make a world—including an occasional one who thinks it would be a good idea to run a highway through Central park to facilitate traffic.

Farmers Oppose Wheat Penalty

RICHLAND COUNTY farmers have joined in the nation-wide wave of protest against the government penalty on wheat raised in excess of quota.

It has been ordered that all wheat exceeding the prescribed quota shall be subject to 49 cents a bushel price penalty, and that none of this surplus shall be fed to stock intended for marketing.

Resentment of farmers to this ruling by the agricultural adjustment administration of the department of agriculture is quite understandable, yet the restriction links so closely with the whole New Deal regimentation program, its "commodity loans" and attempted control of wheat prices, that the penalty provision may appear to its bureaucratic proponents as no more than incidental to the operation of the whole "aid to farmers" plan.

Recognizing the political significance of the widespread outburst of anger among farmers, a movement is already on foot in Washington to change the provisions of such an intolerable "penalty" as has been announced and some way will probably be found to ease the present acute situation.

There have already been several instances of excessive indignation causing farmers to burn wheat in their fields, and the over-zealous leader of a farm group in Dayton is reported to have threatened a farmers' strike "to starve out the nation."

Neither of these attitudes can be accepted as an expression of ideas of the intelligent, thoughtful, patriotic Americanism of the vast majority of farmers in Ohio and other states.

Some way must be found, however, to prevent the hardship that would be worked by imposing such a penalty as has been ordered on wheat—and also to reduce—and sometime end—government's bureaucratic interference with farm production.

Good Work By Prosecutor

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY LUTZ is entitled to public commendation of his policy of making a thorough investigation of the four recent traffic fatalities in this county.

There seems to be no need for saying that EVERY fatal, or serious, automobile accident should be subjected to official investigation as quickly as possible after it happens, and the blame—if any—placed.

With statistics showing that a large percentage of traffic accidents result from violation of laws or regulations, it appears safe to assume that someone is at fault in practically every instance where cars collide or death and injuries result from any accident involving a motor vehicle.

While the prosecutor's office has county-wide jurisdiction as an investigating agency in criminal matters, there has been tacit understanding that local enforcement agencies in a municipality shall take the initiative in cases originating inside the city limits.

In the public interest, however, this policy should not be permitted to go to the extent of passing up serious traffic accidents without the full investigation they warrant, whether they occur in or out of a municipality.

There is such general agreement that consistent law enforcement is one of the essentials of greater highway safety that complete co-operation between city and county officials, as well as the state highway patrol, appears highly desirable.

Joint Tax Returns Unfair

ONE of the proposals submitted in connection with plans to increase income taxes applies in instances where both the husband and wife are employed, each with a taxable income.

The present law provides that husbands and wives having separate incomes may file individual returns, although only one of them may claim the exemption allowed a married taxpayer.

The proposed change would require filing a joint return, which would place the family income in a higher bracket, subject to higher taxes and higher surtax.

This would work particular hardship on couples with moderate combined incomes, even to the extent of placing an economic penalty on the institution of marriage, and, in some instances, encouraging divorce.

The modern trend has been to give women the same individuality as men in employment and business and the idea of merging their earnings for income tax purposes seems neither logical nor just.

Happy To Be an American

A LETTER from a Missouri citizen, which President Roosevelt read at a press conference a few days ago, presents some of the advantages of American citizenship in a forceful way. Here are some excerpts from it:

"I am a married man 28 years old," said the writer. "I have a boy three years old and a girl one. Here's how I feel about being an American.

"My ancestors were Czecho-Slovakians, my wife's English; but we're Americans. I look at my refrigerator, my oil heater and my radio. I'm glad I'm an American. My children get cod liver oil, nourishing food and a doctor's watchful care. They'll be glad they're Americans.

"This morning I went to church. Among my neighbors, unafraid and unmolested, I thanked God for giving us America. I went home to my wife and kiddies. We sat down to veal chops, baked potatoes, fresh green beans and corn on the cob. I said grace with tears in my eyes. I'm so happy I'm an American! I'd rather be an American than anything else on earth."

Item: "John T. Flynn demands that Knox and Stimson resign"—and, by the way, whatever became of Madam Perkins?

Anyhow it can't be said that those Leavenworth prisoners "went out on a strike"—it was merely a sit-down.

SIT DOWN! YOU'RE ROCKING THE BOAT

Confusion of Hopes and Results

(Editor's Note: So that readers may be in position to make their own estimates of President Roosevelt, in the light of various administrative moves, the following comment by Erwin D. Canham in the Christian Science Monitor is reprinted here. During seven years as a Washington correspondent Mr. Canham gained an enviable reputation for fairness.)

AS AN OLD Washington correspondent, perhaps this writer may be permitted to give readers a word of caution. It is important, in reading news of the Roosevelt administration, not to confuse the hope or the plan with the deed or result. This was a mistake we tended to make during all the early years of the New Deal. It is a mistake that is being made during the defense effort. * * *

And perhaps one who reported Roosevelt news in the White House for seven years may also record his impression that President Roosevelt himself tends to confuse his hope or plan with an ultimate achievement. That is the great flaw in his statecraft. It is the glaring error in his administrative ability. Mr. Roosevelt is a great planner and improviser. He is not a great follower-through.

FOR a year now, just as in early New Deal days, we have been hearing of great plans and projects. It has been an exciting time, just as it was back in 1933-34. And we have all tended to confuse the blueprint with the dwelling-house. The very latest dispatches from Washington must be scrutinized with this vital distinction in mind.

Now we are beginning to wake up. The report this week of the House Military Affairs committee is a dash of cold water to our hope-bleared eyes. The time has come when we can ask: "How are the plans working out?" The committee report answers: "Very badly indeed." And now that we have awakened, real and speedy action must follow.

But once again we must beware that just another set of glittering plans isn't substituted for those which have gone awry. That used to be the way of it with New Deal plans that didn't work. Failures were speedily blanketed beneath plans of such grandiose scope that nobody had breath left to criticize. Little plans that didn't work out became, often, big plans that didn't work out either. * * *

Today almost precisely the same thing is happening. The defense effort began with a faulty organization. Instead of the faults being rectified, as the house committee points out, new and more complicated boards and agencies and liaison officers were brought into being until confusion was a good deal worse.

THERE is at this moment a vigorous national demand for reorganization of the defense set-up. The Washington dispatches, just as they did in the old days, are beginning to record that changes are "in the making." But it will require a positive mobilization of public opinion to force President Roosevelt to go to the root of the evil with his changes. As of old, the tendency will be to patch things up and to assume that just because everybody means well, and the objectives are right, that they are thereby automatically attained.

In short, we need—if democracy is to be saved—more delegation of authority by President Roosevelt, who for eight years has palpably held altogether too many reins in his own hands for sound administration.

Friends of the President have quoted him as saying that history's harshest verdict on him will be that he was an exceedingly bad administrator. If he isn't careful, the verdict will be a great deal harsher than that. It will not be pleasant to be the man who saw what should be done and then deliberately refused to do it. Wishes are not horses, not in war times they aren't, and good intentions pave the very worst of roads.

War Doesn't Happen

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE are many otherwise sensible Americans—at least 120,000,000—who are still happy in the belief that we won't be at war unless and until an enemy bomber blasts the Goddess of Liberty or an alien fleet sails through the Golden Gate. Which is plain piffle! War doesn't happen like that. War doesn't arrive on a set date with special sound and light effects. WAR SNEAKS UP ON YOU, LIKE MEASLES OR MUMPS. YOU HAVE IT DAYS LONG BEFORE YOU SUSPECT IT, OR THE RASH BREAKS OUT.

If you want a hunk of convincing proof, read Jimmy Young's best-seller, "Behind the Rising Sun."

Jimmy Young, you remember him. He's as beloved a newspaperman as ever bent an elbow under a pink lemonade. But don't be misled by that seventeen-year-old grin. There's a strangle-hold behind it, dearly earned. For Jimmy saw war come to Japan . . . and spent over three months in Japanese jails, with the whole United States government fighting to free him, because he dared to cry a warning. Now he's telling about it. And if you don't take another book on your vacation, get that one and read it. For if ever a nation needed to know how a perfectly happy, amiable, prosperous bunch of people can be given the works without suspecting that it's happening, we do. And pronto!

Jimmy Young went out to Japan in 1927—and loved it. Even though it was at that time tragically scarred by the great earthquake and fire of 1923. A quarter of a million had died in Yokohama alone; 32,000 had perished in one Tokyo park. Mountains of wreckage still lay untouched. But the spirit of Japan was unaltered. Along the little lakes, the cherry blossoms still bloomed . . . along the crowded streets the kindly, brown faces still smiled . . . gay kimonas fluttered . . . babies laughed and played on the broken bricks and splintered bamboo.

In the fourteen years between 1927 and 1941, Jimmy Young saw Japan twisted, torn and trapped as no invading army could ever twist or trap her. He saw a loveliness that had endured for centuries wiped out . . . proud old customs and revered traditions discarded . . . hate and fear sowed like vicious weeds in millions of simple hearts which had never known doubt or malice before. He saw ugliness spread its poison gas over the earth and into the minds of a beauty-loving people . . . poverty spread through the land like a plague. And gentle, wise old men, who had once held power, lying in pools of their own blood . . . while organized bands of hoodlums ran amok through their council halls.

A terrifying thing? Yes, but even more terrifying was the fact behind it all. THOSE THINGS MIGHT WELL HAVE BEEN PREVENTED IF THE JAPANESE PEOPLE HAD ROUSED THEMSELVES IN TIME. The evidence was plain. It had been accumulating and festering year after year. A blind man could have seen where it would inevitably lead. But. "there are none so blind as those who will not see."

AND THAT GOES WHETHER THEY LIVE IN TOKYO, YOKOHAMA, KANSAS CITY, NEW ORLEANS, BOSTON OR NEW YORK!

How does war come? It comes up right under your nose. It sneaks up while you sit back, complacently, and say that it can't happen. Oh no! . . . Ask Jimmy Young . . . Read his book and shudder. Then ask yourself: "HOW LONG BEFORE SOME ARMED HOODLUM WILL BE DICTATING MY DESTINY . . . CONFISCATING MY HOME . . . THROWING MY GIRL AND WIFE INTO A CONCENTRATION CAMP?"

FDR Promises 'Chat' on Policies, If He Finds Time to Prepare It

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Friends of the president in Hyde Park the other day were urging him to deliver another fireside chat. They wanted him to keep the American public buoyed up, enlighten them further on American foreign policy.

One of these friends was Florence Kerr, able assistant of Civil Defense Administrator La Guardia. She said:

"Mr. President, a lot of us would like to have you make a fireside chat every week or ten days, give us the news hot off the griddle and keep our minds straight about the international situation."

"All right, Florence," the president replied, "I'll give a fireside chat a week—and you'll get a new president."

What Roosevelt meant was that it takes so much time and study to prepare each fireside chat that he would be able to do little else, would have to neglect affairs of state.

However, the president indicated that he did intend to deliver another fireside chat on the war situation and on American policy within the near future.

Can Russia Last?

DESPITE all the conflicting reports from the Russian front, U. S. experts have not wavered in their belief, arrived at regretfully, that in the end Russia cannot stem the tide of Nazi mechanized forces.

The two big things they are hoping for are: (1) that Stalin may keep his Red army intact, retreating slowly and giving terrific punishment to the enemy; (2) that the Russian peasants and army may make it impossible for the Nazi army to subsist in Russia.

It should be remembered that the Russians have been trained for years in the policy of the scorched earth. The British left Rumania without blowing up Rumania oil wells because British pounds sterling were invested in them. British investments came first. And the French would not tear up their beautifully paved roads in front of the advancing Nazi hordes. The improvements of La Belle France came first.

But in Russia, the first thing the peasant does when an enemy advances is to kill a pig and throw it in the well. That spoils the drinking water for the enemy. Then he burns his barn and drives away or kills his livestock, which are far more precious to him than dividends from Rumanian oil wells are to the British. He and his family may starve, but his forefathers have been doing this for generations, and he will do it again.

The Russian peasant also has been trained to guerilla warfare, which, however, will not help in this war. Guerilla fighting against modern airplanes and tanks is about as effective as the Dead End kids resisting J. Edgar Hoover's G-Men.

Note—The real answer to whether Russia can hold out over a long period lies in whether she has any important airplane and munitions factories east of the Ural mountains. No army today can fight without modern weapons.

Senator Caraway.

FOR ten years, since the death of her husband, Senator Hattie Caraway has worn black. And is was only the other day that she bought a new evening gown of blue, with blue lace in the bodice and accordion pleats in the skirt.

This was a revolution in the life of the senate's only woman, but it happened on the impulse of the moment.

Hattie had been persuaded to sit for a portrait. Artist Cyril Gardner of Philadelphia began his work, then paused to suggest that the picture would have more brightness if Mrs. Caraway could wear a bright colored dress.

"But I always wear black," she said. "I have worn black for the last ten years."

"I know," said Gardner, "but if—just for the picture—it would bring out the blue in your eyes, you know."

Hattie changed her mind on the instant. "It's true," she said, "That I haven't had a new evening dress for a long time. Let's go buy one."

And now she is wearing that gown every day as she sits for the portrait. She changes, in her office, from black to the blue, then changes to the black again before she emerges.

Sometimes, sitting for the portrait with hands folded, she bursts into a little laugh. "Don't mind me," she says, "I was just thinking how funny I must look."

Tanks Are Rolling.

MOST significant development in national defense is that at long last we are producing in quantity tanks, anti-aircraft guns, anti-tank guns and other mechanized weapons which have been the strength of the Germans.

Up to now the chief emphasis in national defense has been on (1) air, (2) the sea, and (3) the machine tools and factories for future production. Tanks were seventh on the priorities list while anti-aircraft guns were only a little ahead of them.

Now, however, the airplane program is well launched and if the essential metals can be obtained should increase monthly. Also the shipping program is in fairly good shape. And last week the first medium tanks began to roll off the Chrysler assembly lines, which means that we are getting down to mechanized weapons.

Before medium tanks could be produced, it was necessary to build three new factories from the ground up. It is interesting that Chrysler, which never before had made a tank, beat Baldwin Locomotive and American Locomotive to mass production.

Ties of British Empire.

ONE of the hardest things the British have had to do in this war is to relinquish their century-old steamship lines and other communications with various parts of the far-flung Empire. Despite a growing scarcity of bottoms to carry lend-lease goods across the North Atlantic, the British have hesitated at giving up these traditional routes which made the British Empire what it was.

Last week, however, came an important and unannounced step in this direction. Two British lines to New Zealand and Australia, the Manx Line and the Union Steamship company, took their ships off that run and sent them into the dangerous North Atlantic.

This move was made only after considerable pressure from the U. S. maritime commission, which insisted on the transfer. Simultaneously, Danish ships were allotted to American companies to handle the trade to Australasia.

What will happen after the war remains to be seen. But both countries took the attitude: "Let's win the war first."

Note—A hitch immediately arose to stop the use of the Danish ships when the Maritime Union demanded that Danish seamen join the union, pay dues and receive union wages. This hitch is not expected to be serious.

A Farmer's Diary

Thrush and Snail

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS morning as I came through the scattered brush on the slope above our cottage, I recognized, about 20 feet away, a wood thrush pecking at something on a stone. I stopped and watched. She took an object in her beak and hit it, hard, against the stone. The piece bounded from her mouth, but she captured it again and came back to the same stone. While her back was turned, I edged a little closer.

It was a common snail shell that she had. She whacked it against the stone again and scrutinized one side and then the other. Then she must have detected a break in the shell, for she pecked at it vigorously in one spot. One forceful last thrust, and the snail shell stuck to her beak as she raised her head.

I thought I saw a triumphant twinkle in her eye. She did not try, as I had though she would, to disengage the snail, but instead laid it on the stone and plunged deeper. It was the climax of her efforts. She pressed the tip of her beak into the vitals of the imprisoned snail, then raised her head, shell and all and drank the semi-liquid nourishment as one would drink from a cup.

During the spring, before grass and weeds had grown, I often saw as many as a half dozen snail shells, empty, with a little broken place on each one where something had sucked the life out of it. Not until today did I suspect that the wood thrush had committed this carnivorous act.

I have often thought, though, when I observed these moist pliant creatures that feed upon the tenderest plants, that they should have some value as human food. The modest female fireflies and some of the birds have enjoyed this delicacy of the rich moist atmosphere for ages.

Several dewy mornings, through glasses, I watched a snail crawl sluggishly up a lettuce leaf to a point where it stopped to feast. I saw it rip a hole through, and then with head moving up and down, make it continuously larger. The work was done so neatly that I could not help but admire the precision of the job.

I wondered how he could masticate so rapidly. I placed my ear against the other side of the leaf but did not come in contact with his long extended eyes. Faintly I heard a tearing sound and to make sure it did not come from some moving creature in the soil, I placed my left hand about the base of the lettuce stalk and listened again. I actually heard the teeth of the snail tear down a tender slice of that crisp leaf and saw the movements of the muscles in the act of mastication.

AIR INDUSTRY IN 'QUANTITY' CLASS TO DATE

Need For Small Specialized Parts Prevents Full Mass Production.

(By Special News Service)

LOS ANGELES — In going through an aircraft factory you are likely to come across a pretty girl from Des Moines, Dayton or Danville, threading funny-looking pieces of metal with a wire in an atmosphere which smells like a dentist's office.

The pretty girl is from Des Monies, Dayton or Danville because for months she and hundreds of her sisters have been coming west to seek employment in the burgeoning airplane manufacturing business.

She is preparing parts for anodizing—coating aluminum alloys so they won't rust—and she probably hasn't the faintest idea where the parts fit in the completed machine.

"I string these things on a wire," she explains, "and then they are dipped in that big tank over there. They come out looking a sickly green color."

It is one of tens of thousands of small operations in the construction of warplanes. In terms of paychecks, they are all expensive.

The president of one of the west coast's important warplane factories, Richard Millar of Vultee Aircraft, Inc., says, "automobile and airplane manufacture cannot be compared. While we in the aircraft business are developing short-cuts, we have not and can not achieve true mass production.

"We have what you might call quantity production. We still have too much handwork in airplane making to call it mass production."

With that as a starter, let's begin making an airplane at the point where the things going into it look like what you might purchase across the counter of a hardware store.

They may be "trim tabs," little fabric covered frameworks of metal attached to the control surfaces—elevators, ailerons and rudders—so a pilot can keep his plane nicely balanced in flight. It requires a lot of muscle to pull several tons of airplane this way and that. A tab, actuated by a stream of air against it, takes work off the pilot.

Such small parts as tabs frequently are made in factories miles away from the main factories on a sub-contract basis. That helps speed production. Precious space in the main factories can be devoted to other operations.

A typical sub-assembly is the tail group of an airplane. That includes the fin, which looks like the dorsal fin on a fish, the rudder which is attached to hinges on the trailing edge of the fin, the horizontal stabilizer or tailplane, and the elevators which are hinged to the tailplane.

Farther along the production line we come to the body-mating jigs. A jig is a metal framework on this airplane parts are fashioned to give them uniformity. The main position of the fuselage will be attached to inner wing sections in the bodymaters.

The fuselage has been made in halves. Each half looks like half a pea pod. Bolted and rivited together, they make a cylinder, conical at one end.

Wings are not made in one piece. Outer wing panels are fabricated separately from the inner wings, and the two parts are bolted and rivited together.

The thin metal skin on wings and fuselage, incidentally, is not applied just to cover the airplane's framework. By "stressing" the skin engineers have been able to make it carry part of an airplane's weight. That reduces the amount and complexity of the internal structure.

The highly-specialized training of each naval aviation cadet costs the government about $25,000.

MRS. HARRIMAN TELLS STORY OF LIFE IN NORWAY

American Minister Who Went Through Invasion Writes About Scandinavia.

"Mission to the North," Florence Jaffray (Daisy) Harriman's own story of her three years in Norway as American minister, is among the new titles available at the Mansfield Public library.

Mrs. Harriman presents a warm living picture of the Norwegian way of life and what it offers to America. Her stay in Norway was climaxed by the April invasion of Scandinavia and ended with her struggle to guard and protect American interests.

How she escaped with the royal family and slowly made her way back to America furnishes an absorbing story.

The new fiction list for the week includes:

"TORY OATH" by Tim Pridgin has for its setting tidewater North Carolina, one of the bitterest battlegrounds of the American Revolution, and for its characters, the Scots who came to found a new Highland empire on Cape Fear. When the Revolution broke out, these proud and doughty Highlanders finally took their stand with the British. Tory Oath is particularly the story of young Duncan Stuart, who was loyal to his oath even though the girl he loved was a Rebel.

"WEST TO NORTH" by Compton Mackenzie is the second volume of the West Wind of Love and covers several more years (1920-1923) in the life of the playwright Ogilvie and other characters of the previous volume. Against the changing background of Europe and America, intelligent conversations are held on religion and politics. The book is an interesting portrayal of the post-war period.

"JOB'S HOUSE" by Caroline Slade is a different type of depression story. Job and Katie Mann, an elderly couple, had always paddled their own canoe and when the time came that they were confronted with an insurmountable wall with only one gateway, Public Assistance, they entered a new world.

Other fiction: "SAYS MRS. CROWLEY, SAYS SHE," by Hurley, "PINTO BLOOD," by Ruter, and "MR POLTON EXPLAINS" by Freeman.

Non Fiction.

CHIP OFF MY SHOULDER by Thomas L. Stokes is a vivid informative account of American politics and life in transition from Harding to the present day. The author writes with the frank attitude of a liberal and his portraits of the presidents of this era are candid and personal. Mr Stokes is a Washington newspaper correspondent and recipient in 1939 of the Pulitzer prize for excellent reporting.

"SECRET AND URGENT; THE STORY OF CODES AND CIPHERS" by Fletcher Pratt is a solid and at times fascinating story of the development of secret writing from ancient times to the present, telling of the part codes and ciphers have played in history. Reasons why so much deciphering failed during the World war and at other times are given; many different systems are explained.

"WHITE PILLARS," by J. Frazer Smith is an interpretation of the early life and architecture of the Lower Mississippi valley country. Each regional development, such as Natchez, French Louisiana, the Kentucky Bluegrass Region, Mobile and the Alabama Black Belt, etc., is discussed and a sufficient historic background given. Human interest stories, the whys and wherefors of the Southerner's way of life, and a number of selected examples of houses and furniture are the partial contents of this beautifully illustrated volume.

Other non-fiction:

"PERSONALITY AND LIFE," by Thorpe.

"AND IN THE HUMAN HEART," by Aiken.

"AMERICAN PRIMER," by Hayes.

"AIRPLANE WELDING AND MATERIALS," by Johnson.

"GREAT FLIGHTS," by Shepherd.

"ROYAL AIR FORCE IN PICTURES," by Stewart.

"ROYAL AIR FORCE AT WAR," by Buchan.

"NEWFOUNDLAND," by Shelton.

"TYROLIAN INTERIORS," by Schmidt.

"ARCHITECTURAL SPECIFICATIONS," by Sleeper.

GRANGE MEETS

LOUDONVILLE—The regular meeting of Hanover grange was held Wednesday evening in the hall northeast of town.

Plans were completed for an ice cream festival to be held in the grange hall July 23. Mrs. Jack Vaughn gave rules for the "White Cake Baking" to be held Aug. 20. The winners in this contest will compete in the county contest.

MOBILE, Ala. — (INS) — Some people have regarded Canal street in New Orleans as the widest street in the world but they have not seen the marker sign at a certain intersection in Mobile. On one side of the intersection is a sign reading, "151 miles to New Orleans," and on the other side a sign reads "145 miles to New Orleans." That makes the street intersection six miles wide.

VETEHAN, 69, SERVES

BROCKTON, Mass. — (UP) — William J. Marshall, former shoe factory engineer, was a soldier in the Spanish-American war, lieutenant-commander in the navy during the World war and now at 69 is serving as a lieutenent-commander in the British navy.

SUPPORT BRITAIN

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Four million natives of Nigeria, British protectorate in West Africa, want their complete independence but are willing to support Great Britain in her present emergency, according to Nwafo Orizu, potential ruler of the Nigerians since the recent death of his father. Orizu is a sophomore arts student at Ohio State university.

The pearls found in the edible clams and oysters of the United States usually are worthless.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Children with a yen for adventure will find two new titles at the Mansfield Public library to their liking. One story concerns a set of children who live in an old house with a tower while the other deals with a "hobo camp" set up by a group of juveniles.

PETER AND CYNTHIA by Grace Irwin—Those who have read The Happy Tower already know Peter and Cynthia. Counting Cynthia's four brothers and sisters there are six children living in the house with the tower. The blizzard which helps Peter and his friend to earn money will cool you on a warm day, and all the adventures are exciting.

PONY JUNGLE by Lavinia R. Davis — Rosemary and Patrick came from England to live with their grandmother in a very large house near Josh and Dibs and Tommy. Rosemary and Patrick could go swimming whenever they liked at their house and had horses to ride too. They often invited their three neighbors to join them, and that's how they happened to make their hobo camp, which they called the Pony Jungle.

Gardening Clothes Intriguing

Left, powder blue gingham shorts with collarless jacket; center, blue linen dress topped by striped pinafore; right, cocoa brown slacks and bra.

With high food prices and the general idea that everyone must busy themselves with some constructive work these days, women are going back to the soil in a big way. Amateur gardeners demand workmanlike and intriguing looking clothes whether they own large estates, a few acres, a deep backyard, are the proud possessors of honest-to-goodness farms, or merely till a porch or window box. And dress designers are not disappointing them. Lucile Fairbanks is modeling a playsuit, left, and a slacks suit, right. The short suit is made of a new powder blue of soft gingham piped in navy, and topped by a well-cut, collarless jacket with a large brown padded snail set on the left pocket. The trimly-cut slacks are cocoa brown, and with them are worn a bra top with flared shoulder straps and wide-brimmed brown straw hat. Joan Leslie models the pinafore suit, center. The dress is blue linen and is topped with a blue and white striped pinafore apron and sunbonnet of matching fabric.

COOL SMOKE

There's a good reason why the KIRSTEN Pipe gives you a cooler, sweeter smoke. There are from 9 to 14 square inches of cooling area actually exposed to the atmosphere in the big feather-light KIRSTEN "radiator," according to size of pipe. In this "radiator" a full puff of smoke is pre-cooled; oils and tars are condensed and trapped so they never reach your mouth . . . no bitter "back-bite," no throat-irritating "drinks," no juicy heel.

Men who could never smoke a pipe before, now enjoy the perfect smoke with a KIRSTEN . . . $5 to $10.

Pink and white appointments were used for the table where refreshments were served. A large basket of mixed summer flowers formed a pretty centerpiece.

Mrs. Tony Sinclair of Galion and Miss Helen Smith of Ashland were the out-of-town guests in attendance. There will be many parties for Miss Alacca previous to her marriage.

Children Bring Joys That Last

By GARRY MYERS, Ph.D.

In order to give the best in affection, emotional security and guidance to the growing child the parents must have a strong bond of affection for each other and comradeship between them. Then their love will grow during sorrows as well as during joys. When a couple are really mutually endeared before a child comes into the home, who contributes so much happiness to both of them, they will grow closer during their sorrows rather than drift apart, if they lose that child.

Child a Binding Tie.

While the child should be and often is a binding tie, it will bind even more securely the tie already pretty tight; and this tie will not normally weaken seriously if death should snatch away the child.

Ideally a young married couple cultivate a mutual affection and companionship, which is enriched as children are born to them or adopted. Couples who have no children little realize what richness they have missed—but this affection and this companionship are not severed when a child is lost or has grown up and gone away from home.

Cultivate Enduring Affection.

Young people entering marriage will do well, in case they are looking for genuine and abiding happiness, to cultivate such mutual affection and companionship as will carry on, children or no children. Then they may hope for enrichment of these bodies, if and when they have children in their care.

A selected list of books on marriage, education for marriage and how to make a go of it may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. When we visit the farm with our three-year-old, he will frighten the chickens and throw stones at the farm animals. What should I do?

A. Tell him not to do it again, explaining why, telling and explaining just once. Thereafter, every time he throws anything at a fowl or animal, turn him over your knee, and smack him soundly. Make it hurt. Just remember that protection of the animals is not of first importance, but the moral character of your child.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"HIS FAMILY—gangsters—Stephen Redfield's family?"

To my disgust I felt that I was fairly babbling the words at Nancy Carew. But I could not help my excitement. For, as if her words had unloosened something within me, I now remembered that with my first real appraising look at Mary's handsome leading man, to whom I had given only cursory glances before, I had been struck with his resemblance to the young gangster who, on the train from Dalemont to New York, had tried to take from me Marion's letter to Ronald.

I remembered something else also, while my throat constricted with fear of the possible danger into which Mary's folly in encouraging Stephen Redfield's attentions might have led her. Imprinted photographically upon my memory was the queer, sinister glance which Redfield had flashed at me for an instant when, while bending with apparent infatuation toward Mary, he had looked away from her to me, with an expression in his eyes which had chilled me with its expression of malevolent triumph.

Possible Plot Against Nation.

But this revelation by Nancy Carew, coupled with Stephen Redfield's resemblance to the young gangster, conjured up such fantastic probabilities that I was staggered by the vista it opened to me.

Suppose that the gangster who had tried to get Marion's letter from me was, indeed, a relative of Stephen Redfield?

If these premises were correct, I reasoned on, then a corollary of them was that this disappearance of Marion's, her association with the gangsters and the desperate attempt to get hold of her letter to Ronald, were not a personal matter connected with Marion, but had ramifications into the sinister labyrinth where lurked plotters against the nation.

Nancy Reassured.

I looked up from my reverie to find Nancy Carew's grave and troubled eyes fixed upon my face.

"I am so sorry to have brought you this trouble," she said, "but I did not know what else to do."

"Sorry!" I echoed. "I am so glad you told me! And when I have time to tell you a certain story, you may find out that this revelation of yours has saved a life, and has solved our most grievous problem."

"Then," she said, "I feel it is worth while for me to have broken one of the most rigid laws of our profession—loyalty to our comrades."

"A comrade who is working against his country—I think you hinted that of Stephen Redfield—is not worthy of loyalty," I said.

I put a stern note into my voice, for I could see her courage needed bolstering.

"Yes, that is true," she said, hesitantly, then added doloroously: "But you see, while I am certain my accusations against Steve are correct, yet I have no proof which would stand up in court. That is why I wondered if it would be ethical for me to say anything against him."

"I wouldn't worry about that angle of it," I told her dryly. "What we have most needed in the affair which is so sorely troubling us just now is contact with some person who can lead us to the gang we are hunting. This knowledge will be of inestimable value to my father."

"I am so glad," she said. "But I am so worried about Mary. Do you suppose she has really fallen in love with Redfield?"

Housewife Should Go on Beauty Spree

By MME. QUI VIVE

Well, what happened to you, lady of the house? Did you pile your household goods into a van, remove yourself and family to a new abode, or did you tear your domain apart for the housecleaning fracas? It is one or the other. You're all tuckered out, your hands have aged overnight, and you have not attended to your beauty home work as you should. Spring is a beautiful season, but it has its drawbacks. Getting curtains washed, rugs cleaned, summer clothes for the kids. And men fancy that wives and mothers have nothing to do.

Be of good cheer. In time turmoil ceases and, if you have a drop of human kindness for yourself, you will go on a big beauty bust. Get yourself some new duds, spend half a day in the pulchritude parlor getting the whole works. A body massage will take the knots out of tense muscles, will hush-hush the overtaxed nervous system.

A fresh laid permanent sets one up like all get out. Hairdressers' brains are seething this season with new plans and specifications for coiffures. If you go home with a new one you'll feel positively skittish. We recommend it as a life saver after spring labor troubles.

If you are the average susceptible woman you will loiter at the cosmetic counter. Time to get a new powder to match the July face, and a new powder calls sometimes for a new shade of rouge and lipstick. Very yummy colors this season, not quite so bright, but bright enough. After battles with dust the complexion needs extra oiling sessions, so stock up on thin creams for cleansing and heavy ones for putting out the eye of old Pop Time who may be thinking that turkey tracks are your due.

Pick up your beauty knitting. Get on a schedule and stick to it. Grant yourself one half hour for pulchritude attentions before crawling into bed. After the face washing, which you must never miss willy-nilly, even if you fancy that you are half dead, give your complexion a restorative treatment. Spread on the cream, starting at your collar bones and working up to your glorious crown, then tap and slap. Do not remove the cream. Let the cutaneous coat eat it while you sleep.

Hands can't get too much oil The natural product is removed by the free use of soap and water and that is why hands sometimes get old before faces. Brush your hair, put it in order, slip on the wave cap.

We're sick of hearing about how women should beautify to keep their husbands love, but there is a germ of truth in the idea. If there isn't then why does a wife have a sickish feeling when she sees her old man unshaven, hair on end—if he has any—and his once handsome form enwrapped in an old bath robe? He isn't exactly a Romeo, is he? It works both ways.

"The Authority on Authorities"

IF ALL SUITS ARE BID

When your opponents have bid all four suits, it is an old joke to tell your partner to "lead the unbid suit." Against a No Trump contract, if only three suits have been bid, that lead is usually sound unless there is something unusual about your own hand. But when all of them have been bid, you require a somewhat different rule, if indeed you are going to follow a set rule. Then it is usually best to open one of the suits named by the dummy, since you are leading through it, rather than one of the declarer's, in which case you would be leading up to it. This must, of course, be varied according to what you hold, but with other things equal, it is a good rule to follow, especially a lead of the dummy's second suit, which probably contains entries for the first one.

(Dealer: South Neither side vulnerable)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♣
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	4 NT
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	6 NT

Bidding of all four suits landed several duplicate pairs in 6-No Trumps on this deal. In each case the result depended on the opening lead. One South player decided that the smart thing to do was to lead his spade singleton, since he could feel pretty sure his partner had a goodly bunch of that suit. North used his K to force the A. Then the diamond 10 finesse worked, also the club 10 to the Q and K, followed by the A, the J and the 4 given up to North's 6. North returned his heart K to the A, whereupon declarer cashed the club 2, finessed the diamond J, took two high diamonds and then won a finesse of the spade 10, taking the Q to make his contract.

Where the diamond 4 was led—the logical lead on the bidding—it was set. This fell to the 10, the club 10 brought the Q and K, followed by the A, J and 4 to the 6. North returned his heart K to the A, the club 2 was cashed, the diamond J finessed, the A and K taken, but there was only time enough to take one spade finesse, so the last trick had to be given up. Notice that a heart lead also sets it, but a club lead makes it.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If West bids 1-Diamond on this deal and North passes, what would you do in the East if you knew South as an extremely aggressive bidder?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 19.

An eventful, perhaps memorable day, is forecast from interesting planetary configurations. While there is much of the sudden, unforseen and unusual likely to whirl into being, yet there is a stabilizing force making for permanent and enduring success providing these spectacular or unprecedented visitations do not sweep away sound reason, good judgment and wise decisions.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured a year of spectacular or peculiar adventures, with many unexpected and breath-taking developments, likely to uproot and demand re-organization of plans and objectives. The vision, imagination and intellect will be able to cope with such situations, being practical, original and audacious as well as sound and constructive. Collaboration with superiors, public and groups bring best results.

A child born on this day should have much originality, genius and ability of sound and enduring worth as well. Its inventiveness and exceptional talents will be supported by solid and practical qualities.

Lottery Sets Up Order Numbers for Richland Draftees

The following tables (one for each draft board in Richland county) indicate the order in which the nearly 500 Richland county 21-year-olds who registered for military service on July 1 will be called by their boards for classification.

The first number listed is the sequence number and indicates only the sequence in which the following numbers were drawn in last night's lottery in Washington.

The second number—with the prefix "No."—is the serial number of the registrant.

Thus, because No. 196 was the first drawn in the lottery, men in each draft board will be the first classified in this county, and so on.

The ration in which men thus classified will be integrated in the old draft list will depend on the number of men still uncalled in the old list.

Here is how last night's lottery in Washington affected Richland county's 21-year-olds:

Board No. 1

1. No. 98—George Washington Kessie, 333 Sturges avenue.
2. No. 39—Jerald S. Ruckman, 465 West Fourth street.
3. No. 74—Galin Arthur Myers, 157 Vennum avenue.
4. No. 96—Glen Franklin Seaton, 162 Brooker Place.
5. No. 152—Albert Alvie Truman, R. 544 Daisy street.
6. No. 40—Marion Carl Dunham, 247 Helen avenue.
7. No. 119—Frank Thomas Placent, 138 Boughton avenue.
8. No. 9—James Wallace McCormick, 69 Marion avenue.
9. No. 156—Martin Frank Scheel, 470 Davey avenue.
10. No. 116—Benjamin Addison Lemert, 29 Baldwin avenue.
11. No. 11—Claud Maurice Patterson, 160 West Third street.

14. No. 160—Kenneth Eugene Wharton, 371 Marion avenue.
15. No. 117—Charles Leonard Oakes, 173 West Dickson.

'BOMBARD' CLASSROOM

HARRISBURG, Pa —(INS)— If medical science has its way, school children soon will be "bombarded" in the classroom. Delegates to the recent Pennsylvania Health institute heard of a light ray, still in an experimental stage, which will kill the germs of contagious disease. The idea is to "bombard" a classroom to kill germs that cause colds and other nose and throat diseases.

In Missouri, the average asphalt or concrete road lasts about 30 years, the average oil or macadam road 10 years.

Sees Increased U.S. Market For Fruit Juices

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Although the nation's annual consumption of canned and bottled fruit juices is 1.6 gallons per capita, Dr. W. V. Cruess of the University of California believes this can be greatly increased.

"There is a distinct possibility," he said, "that the use of fruit juices may be greatly extended in future years. The use of tart juices as table beverages, in much the same way as dry wines are used, may be one method of doing this."

Scientific developments, better quality juices, pasterization of juices in sealed cans and the greater use of fruit juices in carbonated drinks, are also helping to increase the consumption, the university scientist added.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

What Broadway Has.

EVERY now and then this pillar devotes itself to the problem of "What Broadway Needs." But that's just idle diversion and wishful thinking and loving criticism. Far be it from me to carp about Broadway, or give the impression that it hasn't got plenty already, because for me it has more than any other street in the world.

Broadway, above all, is the backbone of show business. As a talent scout, as a star-maker, as a proving ground for Hollywood, it has given America its best shows, its best performers, its best writers and technicians.

Dorothy Kilgallen

Broadway has the knack of bringing out the best in an artist and it rises to magnificent heights in this department—especially after Hollywood has failed. It gave Mary Martin a chance to show Hollywood what Hollywood couldn't see under its nose.

It developed an endless stream of movie names that the movies were too far-sighted to see at close range. That goes for Betty Grable, Jo Ann Sayers, Phyllis Brooks, Joan Carroll, Victor Mature—yes, even Paul Lukas.

Broadway has Helen Hayes and Ethel Barrymore and Kit Cornell. Broadway has Ethel Merman and Victor Moore and Billy Gaxton.

Broadway has a few geniuses like George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, who can do nothing worse than father only a mild hit. . . . It has William Saroyan, although it's not sure what that means . . . and Broadway Rose.

Broadway has more potential stars than you can shake a daiquiri at. It is rich in fresh, amazing and energetic young people from Manhattan, Sunnyside, Columbus and Ft. Worth, who sing their throats hoarse, who dance their feet lame, and who work their very hearts out to reach the goal they know darn well goes only to one in a hundred.

So Broadway is crammed with ambition, hope, industry, inspiration and perseverance. That makes it sparkle. That makes it come up every now and then with something so good it takes your breath away.

It has an ever-increasing stock of Mary Martins and Betty Grables, of Gene Kellys and Richard Warings. . . . It has heartaches, too, but you don't see them. The spotlight has a habit of shining only on success.

Broadway has Buddy DeSylva, although now it shares him with movietown. With "DuBarry Was a Lady," "Louisiana Purchase" and "Panama Hattie," the former songwriter rates as today's Ziegfeld, and countless young hopefuls look forward to his next musical because it is bound to produce new stars just as his other shows have done

It has Rogers and Hart, Cole Porter, Vincent Youmans, Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern. . . . And it has George Gershwin.

It has its "little people," like Betsy Blair, Betty Allen, June Allyson, Gene Kelly, June Havoc, Leila Ernst and Eugene Loring, who can come from out of nowhere to take over a star's part and stop the show.

It has a way of nurturing the nation's laugh-makers, like Eddie Cantor, Milton Berle, Ed Wynn, Bob Hope and Jack Pearl. It has the effect of a springboard on such personality singers as Harry Richman, Hildegarde, Joan Merrill, Jean Sablon, Ruth Etting, Helen Morgan and Carol Bruce.

If you like the movies, you've got to like Broadway. Because Broadway gave birth to Hollywood.

Broadway has what the out-of-towner wants on his day off, and that goes for the citizens of The Bronx, Brooklyn and Harlem. It has the holiday spirit on New Year's Eve, the Fourth of July and every day in between.

It has oomph and zing and ping and all the things for which people invent words when they only mean they like it. . . . If you listen to its heart, the sound you hear is the laughter and applause of a whole nation.

Broadway has every kind of oasis in the world, from El Gaucho to El Morocco, from the Stork to Spivy's, from Monte Proser's to Monte Carlo. . . . The best bands, hotel rooms for dancing and restaurants with foreign foods for culinary explorations.

It has the most fun for you $$$$. . . . The beautiful people are part and parcel of the Main Stem—people like models and chorines and showgirls and footlights heroines, who make a career of their face value, and handsome people who just want to be in the thick of the thrilling senery.

Broadway has more than enough beauty to hide the ugliness behind it.

So when you look closely, Boardway has the best of everything and also an unhappy share of the worst.

It will always be lacking in something, and that's what makes the Big Street go on and on—in pursuit of that bigger hit, that brighter light.

That, I think, is what Broadway needs most: To go on and on!

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Ordinarily this department pursues a laissez-faire policy in the matter of filmland's domestic relations, indulges in no keyhole peeping or unsolicited advice. Yet today I feel the Society for the Prevention of Something-or-Other should investigate the weird goings-on at the little hilltop house of the Louis Haywards.

This is prompted by no idle gossip, but by full confession of the parties most nearly concerned: Mr. Hayward, specialist in the portrayal of neurotic youth, and Mrs. Hayward, or Ida Lupino, specialist in the portrayal of neurotic women of all ages.

Sample confession from Ida: "I stalk around the house like Lady MacBeth. . . ."

Ditto from Louis: "It goes on at the dinner table, and after. We've a scene in the picture that suggests the poisoning of food. I'm afraid we're beginning to be just a little suspicious of each other when we say 'Another cup of tea.'"

LOUIS and Ida are working together in a movie for the first time. It's "Ladies in Retirement," the chiller-meller about the household retainer who kills her mistress and stokes the body away in the old bake-oven by the hearth in that lonely house on the resolate English moor, year 1886. Ida's the killer, a fine bundle of neu-99.4 per cent pure no-good, who roses, and Louis is the young heel, finds out and tightens the blackmail screws. They carry on their hare-and hounds game of wits in a set that's enough, by itself, to give a spectator the willies. Sort of "Wuthering Heights" effect, ideal for a chiller.

"We really shouldn't." Ida laughs unneurotically after a heart-thumping sequence in which Louis has been playing cat-and-mouse with her, "but we keep on working at the thing after we get home. We talk of nothing else at dinner, and then we start plotting for the next day's scenes. It's how-about-this-way, and how-about-that. Last night I'm asleep and Louis bursts in with 'Loopy, I've a WONDERFUL IDEA! Listen!' So I listen, and were' off again."

GOVERNOR ACTS IN ORGANIZING DEFENSE GROUP

Expected to Complete Naming of 14-Member Board In Next Week.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The Ohio defense council, which will not have legal status for another month yet, was being organized today by Governor Bricker so that Ohio's civilian defense problems can be attacked immediately after the defense council law becomes effective.

The governor may complete the 14-member council next week by selecting six civilian members but it is not known whether he will make their names public until August 20 when the council becomes a legal body.

At a meeting of state officials who will be members of the council yesterday, the governor discussed the types of individuals he should name to fill out the council.

It seemed likely that Ralph D. Henderson, who has been chairman of a state defense council created by governor's proclamation, would be appointed vice-chairman of the new council.

Bricker has reportedly informed friends that he is anxious to organize the council as soon as possible because of the fear that the country will be involved in the war before September.

It was generally agreed at the meeting yesterday that the council's primary effort would be to attempt continuation of "normal life and government functions" throughout the state even though increasing demands are made in the interests of defense.

When the defense council law becomes operative the council will have sweeping powers "to do all acts and things, not inconsistent with law, for the furtherance of defense activities."

The governor will be empowered to create local and district councils, but it was understood that the council will endeavor to solve many of its problems as possible through existing state and local government bodies. Many cities now have defense councils. When the law goes into effect they will be abolished unless given recognition by the governor. It was thought that the areas of the local councils may be increased in size.

At the request of the federal government and the governor named H. C. Atkinson, head of the state bureau of unemployment compensation, and Henderson to act as a state priorities board to cooperate with three federal officers in setting up civilian defense priorities on projects which will be financed from a $150,000,000 federal appropriation.

Roosevelt Indicates Airfields Being Built In S. America.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt hinted at today's press conference that the United States may be constructing air fields in South America elsewhere than in Brazil, but he declined to give any specific information.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, testified yesterday before the senate military committee that the war department is cooperating with Pan-American Airways in the construction of landing fields in Brazil.

When Mr. Roosevelt was asked whether other fields were being constructed, he said that he could not tell the press. Finally, however, he said that fields are being built at strategic points. He answered in the affirmative when asked whether he had used the plural word "points."

Youth Grasps Horns After Being Gored Twice.

FREMONT—(INS)— Split-second thinking when he grasped the horns of an infuriated bull which had thrown him and gored him twice today was believed to have saved the life of Robert Hasselbach, 17-year-old farm boy here.

The youth required 24 stitches to close two deep wounds in his back after the bull attacked him as he led the animal from a pasture.

Beat Hitler, Don't Boo Isolationists Willkie Requests

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Wendell L. Willkie appealed to the crowd at a "beat Hitler" rally last night not to boo Charles A. Lindbergh or Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D.,Mont.)

"Let's not boo any American citizen," he said. "We come here tonight, men and women of all faiths and parties, not to slander our fellow citizens. We want all of them. We come to promote unity —not discord. Let's all save our boos for Hitler."

The crowd, which earlier in the program had booed loudly at mention of Lindbergh and Wheeler, thereafter followed Willkie's advice.

The 1940 Republican presidential candidate, commenting on Lindbergh's request for a presidential investigation of charges made against him by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, issued a statement criticizing the administration's attitude toward its critics.

"I hope," he said, "that the administration will discontinue these constant and bitter attacks on individuals, companies and others who may disagree with it. Democracy should function through orderly and thoughtful discussion and not through adolescent name-calling."

RELIEF COSTS NINE MILLIONS

Poor relief in Ohio cost $9,732,782 for the first six months of this year, official department figures showed today

The figure was $3,530,149 less than for the corresponding 1940 period, a drop of 26.6 per cent, Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said.

June expenditures were $655,240 below the June, 1940, total and $181,476 under the sum for last May, he said.

The department allocated $590,667 to pay the state's 50 per cent share of June relief costs, leaving several thousand dollars in a cushion fund which Sherwood said would be used to assure full payment of the state's share of future costs.

A recent supplemental allocation brought to 50 per cent the state's participation in relief costs for the first half of 1941.

The June allocations of state funds for county relief units included: June allocations of state funds for county and city relief units were Mansfield $1,430; Richland county $2,141, and Ashland county $1,206.

HIKE IN SOCIAL SECURITY TAX STUDIED AS INFLATION CHECK

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The possibility of heavy increases in social security taxes, to help head off inflation and to make more millions available for defense financing, was reported under informal discussion today by treasury and social security officials.

Some were declared to favor increasing the present 1 per cent tax on employers and employes to 3 or 5 per cent. Raising the rates, they said, was one way of draining off extra money which people might spend in ways that could cause inflation.

There was no indication of an early decision on the proposal, however.

The experts explain the potential need for the increased levies in this manner:

Because of the defense program, more people are earning more money than ever before. At the same time, defense orders and priorities on such materials as aluminum are cutting down the volume of consumer goods which people can buy with their money.

The experts fear that people will bid against each other for the available merchandise, pushing prices up to inflationary levels.

President Roosevelt is considering a request to congress for authority to control prices and even rents, but the experts believe that it may also be necessary to impound some of the idle money.

Some experts advocated extending the pension coverage to groups not now included, such as farm hands, domestic servants and school teachers.

RENEW TESTS

World's Biggest Bomber Will Take to Air Again Monday.

MARCH FIELD, Cal. — (INS) — The world's mightiest bomber, the Douglas B-19, will take to the air again Monday in the first of a series of thorough tests before the $3,500,000 ship is formally accepted by the U. S. army air corps.

The ship must have 30 hours' testing before Douglas officials deliver it to the army. To date it has had two hours and 23 minutes of testing in two flights.

Major Stanley M. Umstead, the army's chief test pilot, who was at the controls on the ship's maiden flight June 27 and then again on its second flight July 2, will handle the bomber during its remaining test hops.

NEW YORK —(INS)— A 39-year-old artist, Miss Clara Spencer, was held by police today charged with having strangled her 71-year-old mother to death in her studio apartment.

Police said Miss Spencer revealed she had choked her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Spencer, when the older woman attempted to stop her from committing suicide. She slashed her own wrists with a can opener and fourned on the gas.

Neighbors summoned police when they smelled the odor of gas and she was found unconscious beside her mother's body. Police said Miss Spencer was formerly a patient in a state hospital for the insane.

ACTION HITS ACTIVITY IN LATIN AMERICA

Seen as Severe Blow to Nazi and Italian Commerce In Hemisphere.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — United States publication of a blacklist of 1,833 firms and individuals deemed to be serving the interests of the Axis powers in Latin America was described in official quarters today as a severe blow to such commercial activity as Germany and Italy have been able to carry on in the southern Republics

Authorities said that the Nazis especially had been trying to hold on to their Latin American customers in some instances by supplying them with products actually made in this country but packaged and represented as German manufactures. Distribution of the blacklist and imposition of United States export restrictions against the firms named therein was expected virtually to shut off this source of supplies for the Germans.

The system which has been followed by these firms, officials said, was to buy in this country products similar to or identical with those made in Germany, ship them to South America and resell them as German goods. Many articles made here, including, it was said, such things as patent medicines, originally were developed in Germany and have been little changed, if at all, by their American manufacturers.

Along with announcement of a new export policy for shipments to Latin America, the list—officially designated as "the proclaimed list of certain blocked nationals"—was issued yesterday in one of the most dramatic economic warfare moves the United States has yet made against the Axis.

Ordered by President Roosevelt in a special proclamation, it was issued jointly by the secretaries of state, treasury and commerce, the attorney general, the export control administrator and the coordinator of commercial and cultural relations between the American republics. This group promptly became known here as the "economic warfare committee." To it the president assigned the function of keeping the blacklist up to date.

The White House said the list would serve two principal purposes—to prevent those named in it from receiving any of the hundreds of articles now under export control "except in special circumstances" and to prohibit them from using any of the Axis' assets in this country which recently were frozen by the president.

Since the list covered not only German nationals and outright German and Italian firms but also others officially "deemed to be" serving German and Italian interests, it was expected to have a variety of results. Among these, officials said, were plugging leaks of American defense materials to the Axis powers and elimination of pro-Axis propaganda and political activities financed by profits on American business

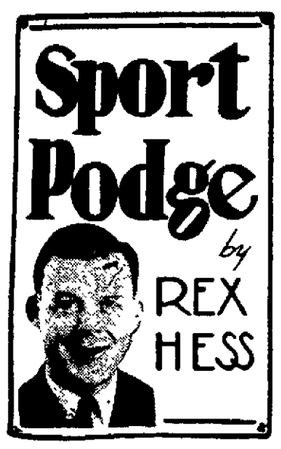
Indians Stop DiMaggio's Hitting Streak at 56 Games



Business management of the Mansfield Braves is just a bit unduly worried, or so it seems to me, over the financial outlook of the Mansfield club in the Ohio State league.

But then I can understand their attitude, and can even put out a bit of sympathy, even though I believe the baseball outlook is considerably brighter in Mansfield today than it has been for several years.

The fact that Wednesday night's game with Fremont drew nearly 400 paying customers in spite of the fact that storm clouds were hanging low over the ball park, and that it was raining just before game time, proves to me that baseball interest, and particularly interest in the red-hot Braves is on a rising tide in this man's town. Or should I say "this Mansfield?"

Here's the ball club's situation. To date 12 home games have been rained out. And while the players rested, the overhead went on, so that the club lost on an average of $100 on overhead alone on each rainy night.

Even though some of the rained out games were played later in double-headers, attendance at the bargain bills did not make up for the crowds lost on the original dates

The management points out that the average crowd of 324 customers of the first half season is not big enough to operate baseball in Mansfield and take care of that rainy day loss. It takes an average closer to 500.

Now I'm an optimistic sort of bird, and besides it ain't my dough, so I can't bring myself around to worrying too much.

I believe, with the Braves playing the kind of ball they are now giving the fans, and I don't mean that they have to win every game, that the crowd average will step up toward the 500 mark in a hurry.

I'm certain there would have been more than 500 at the yard Wednesday night under decent weather conditions.

* * *

Mansfield fans can't ask for better ball in the Ohio State league than the Braves have been giving them

Besides the present winning streak of seven straight games owned by the Braves, the club has scored 23 victories and lost only six decisions in their home games

Not since June 25 when Fremont took the second half of a double-header 5 to 3, after dropping the opener 6 to 5, have the Braves been defeated on their home lot

The Braves have copped eight straight home games, defeating Fostoria 4 to 3, Findlay 2 to 1, Tiffin 4 to 2, Lima 4 to 0, Fostoria 7 to 5, Tiffin 6 to 1, Lima 9 to 2, and Fremont 2 to 0.

* * *

"We have just about 300 faithful fans who can be found at the park just about every night there's a game," said one Braves official.

"If each of those 300 faithful could talk one friend into attending a game or two, we'd soon have 500 faithful fans, and no more worries."

And if the 300 faithful can't sell the brand of ball represented in the scores shown above, then the friends of the faithful just can't be made into baseball fans. For those scores represent real baseball.

LONE EASTERN SURVIVOR MEETS DEFENDING CHAMP

NEW YORK —(AP)— After a day's interruption because of rain, the New York state clay court tennis championship resumes today with all four quarter final matches to be played. Originally two were to be played yesterday. A heavier program of doubles matches also is on the schedule.

The singles schedule calls for top-speed Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, the defending champion, to play Dadislav Hecht, the Ermer Czech Davis cup player who is the lone "eastern" survivor.

Pub-Links Considers Action

Relations With State Association Shaken.

By DON SMITH

COLUMBUS —(UP)— The Ohio Public Links Golf association, rankled by the alleged mistreatment of two of its players in the current state amateur tournament at Toledo, may take some kind of action within the next few days regarding future relations with the Ohio State Golf association, sponsors of the state tourney, it was learned today.

* * *

Any action taken by the O. P. L. G. A. will have to come through the executive committee, comprised of President R. O. Romberger of Toledo, Earl Shock of Dayton, Charles Burns of Akron and Secretary-Treasurer Ray Pennell of Columbus.

It was learned that the publinks group may go so far as to refuse to sanction any further participation by its golfers in the state amateur tournament.

The contemplated action was prompted by the pairing of two Columbus golfers in the first-round matches Wednesday at the Inverness Country club.

The draw matched Dick Rhyan, state publinks champion, and his close friend, Bill Podolski, Columbus district winner. Rhyan carded a 78 in the qualifying round and Podolski had a 77.

The pairing was immediately protested by Romberger but the tournament committee headed by Hamilton Hedges of Columbus failed to change the draw.

The system of pairing used by the committee was not revealed. Under the U. S. G. A. pairing system for a 64-man match-play tournament, no two players can be closer than 32 places. The U. S. G. A. system is usually used in amateur meets.

Rhyan's 78 placed him 33rd on the list of the 64 qualifiers. Podolski finished in 25th place. Rhyan would have met Frankie Stranahan of Toledo and Podolski would have faced Frank Hughes of Toledo, according to the U. S. G. A. draw.

Even if the P. G. A. pairing system had been used, it would have been impossible for the two Columbus stars to meet in the first round.

The 18 low finishers in the state publinks play are permitted to play in the state amateur. In 1932, the first year publinks golfers were permitted to compete in the tourney, the O. S. G. A. allotted 32 places to the publinks players.

The list was cut to 24 four years ago and last year the quota was shaved to the present total of 18.

Director Appeals Benny M'Coy Case

LANSING, Mich —(INS)— National Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey has appealed the 1-A draft classification of Benny McCoy second baseman with the Philadelphia Athletics, Col Samuel D. Pepper, Michigan deputy director of selective service announced today

* * *

Colonel Pepper said that the national draft chief interceded in the McCoy case because the infielder, whom the A's bought for $45,000 last year as a free agent, is needed to support his parents, a brother and a sister in Grandville, Mich.

* * *

Classified as immediately available for army service McCoy was to report for induction Monday. He recently sought reclassification but was denied by an appeal board

FORMER TIGER SHORTSTOP FILES FOR CITY OFFICE

DETROIT — (INS) — A $100 nominating fee for Billy Rogell, former Detroit Tiger shortstop and now a candidate for common council, was filed today with the city clerk.

Mrs. Rogell, accompanied by Al Benton and Charley Gehringer of the Tigers, deposited the fee. Rogell is managing a team in Lancaster, Pa., during the summer.

Vet Favored To Take Crown

Three Time Winner Faces Youth In Semi-Finals.

TOLEDO—(AP)—Two dynamite-laden matches were on tap today in the 36-hole semi-finals of the 38th annual Ohio Amateur Golf championship. The four-star cast includes a three-time winner and a trio of younger aspirants who have never come close.

The favorite to romp to his fourth title in eight years is Maurice J. McCarthy, the 34-year-old campaigner from Cincinnati. He's matched against Bob Pollex, 21-year-old Toledo public links star, and their records are so different that they shouldn't be permitted on the same course.

* * *

Pollex has never won anything in the golf line, while McCarthy, in addition to his three Ohio championships, annexed in 1934, 1937 and 1938, held the national intercollegiate laurels in 1928, the Cleveland and Cincinnati district crowns several times, the Metropolitan New York title, and has played in at least a dozen national amateur tourneys.

* * *

In the second round, Pollex pushed Bob Servis, Dayton's four-time champion, to the sidelines. Yesterday he beat R. A. Stranahan of Toledo, state senior king, and Jim Lewis of Toledo, one of last year's semi-finalists.

In the other semi-finals matches are Frank Stranahan, the 18-year-old medalist from Toledo, and Tom Whiteway, 27-year-old Cleveland shotmaker. Stranahan holds the Arizona and trans-Mississippi amateur titles. The Clevelander has been playing tough golf, his latest victim being John Meier, Toledo public links star, and Billy Gilbert of Cincinnati, the 1940 Western conference champion from Cincinnati.

Links Battle Booked Sunday

Stroh Beer Team To Meet Possum Run.

First special match of the season for Mansfield golfers is booked for 1 p. m. Sunday at Possum Run when the newly organized Stroh's Bohemian Beer aggregation of ten niblick swingers tangles with the Possum Run team.

Pairings for the match have not yet been made, except for the No. 1 battle between Pete Zeides of Possum Run, and Joe Mayer, lead-off man of the Stroh team, and Possum champion.

Zeides has defeated Mayer twice this season, and the Possum's ace counting on him to turn the trick a third time. But Joe, as all Mansfield golfers know, will be tough to take.

Completing the Possum Run team will be Pete Linster, Ray Oakes Rolly Rachel, Carl Wiseman, Grant Hanawalt, Frank Cipris Frank Jocha, Ray Malaska and Johnny Carr

Other members of the Stroh lineup are Joe Kasper, Vin Tipul, John Scodovic Johnny Jocha, Al Kushin Vin Malaska, Adam Brandt Nick Linster, and Gene Zediker

Bagby Stops DiMaggio

JOE DI MAGGIO JIM BAGBY

The bases were loaded in the eighth inning last night when Joe DiMaggio came to the plate facing young Jim Bagby of the Indians at Cleveland stadium in his last chance to stretch his great hitting streak to 57 straight games. But Bagby got Joe to swing at an outside pitch, and DiMaggio slapped a grounder at Lou Boudreau at short, starting a double play, and retiring the side. The streak was over at 56 games.

Record Completed, Joe's Just Another Hitter Now

By LARRY HAUCK

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The amazing Joe DiMaggio steps to the plate against Bob Feller today as just another hitter trying to get a hit.

After connecting safely in 56 consecutive games against the best pitching in the world for a major league record, the loping Yankee outfielder was stopped by two ordinary hurlers and an all-star third baseman.

A record night-game audience of 67,468 waited breathlessly four times for the all-important hit.

Once Southpaw Al Smith walked Joe on a three-and-two pitch. Twice sure-fielding Ken Keltner dashed behind third base to make sensational backhand stops and throw out the New York slugger by a step.

The San Francisco star finally bowed out in a tense scene. One man was out and the bases loaded in the eighth inning when Jim Bagby was called from the bullpen. With the count one and one, DiMaggio rapped a sharp grounder to Lou Bourdreau that ended in a double play.

Bagby said Joe swung at an outside fast ball. Smith wouldn't comment on his pitches. DiMaggio himself named Keltner as the villain.

Amid a Yankee victory celebration in the clubhouse, Joe commented:

"I can't say I'm glad that it's over. Of course I wanted to go on as long as I could. But Smith and Bagby didn't break my string. The guy who turned the trick was that Keltner. He was a little rough on me."

"Sure Keltner broke his string," barked Manager Joe McCarthy. Now Joe is going to start another one and break his own record."

* * *

Ironically the tottering Indians were the last club to stop DiMaggio, the rangy fly-chaser going hitless against Mel Harder in New York May 14. The next day he started the streak against Chicago's Edgar Smith.

Bissman Club Adds to Lead

Byrnes and Fay Tie For Medal Honors.

Bissman golfers picked up one point on the second-place Elks last night at Possum Run to stretch their lead in the News-Journal B league to two points.

Bissman's defeated Tucker Furnitures 3 to 2 while the Elks were dropping a 2-3 decision to Tinkey Lumber.

* * *

News-Journal hopped on the last-place Moose for a 4 to 1 victory, and Central Fruit edged City News 2 to 1.

Maurice Byrnes and Harry Fay tied for medal honors with cards of 38, while Jim Orr was the only other 40-breaker, turning in a 39.

TROTTER NAT HANOVER SETS TRACK RECORD

COLUMBUS, Ind—(INS)— Nat Hanover, owned by W. Michael of Bucyrus, O., was the possessor of a new track record at the Bartholomew county fair grounds today after stepping a mile in 2:06 to win the 2:10 trot.

The old trotting mark of 2:07½ was established by Wayne track in 1937.

Redlegs Win With Riddle

Giants Bow as Elmer Extends Winning Streak.

NEW YORK (AP)— Elmer is still the riddle.

The young Georgian who has charmed the experts with his modesty confused the National league's best batters with the ball he throws in second gear, and given Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds his only contentment of 1941, hammered down victory No. 11 last night.

The Giants were the victims and the clincher was three called strikes slipped past Gabby Hartnett with the tying run on third in the ninth. The score was 5 to 4.

Young Riddle came close to losing his first game of the season this time. Possibly the fact that the Red Legs scored as many as five runs for him was unsettling. Anyway, deft fielding by Bill Webber, Lloyd Craft and Lloyd Waner was all that stood between Elmer and the end of his string in the early innings.

* * *

However, the net of it was all the Giants could really accomplish was to end Elmer's streak of 23 scoreless innings by chasing a run across in the first inning.

* * *

He now has put together the longest winning streak of any Cincinnati pitcher in the memory of graybeards. In 1938 Johnny Vander Meer won nine in a row, including his two successive no-hitters. In 1939 Paul Derringer had ten straight, and last year Bucky Walters had nine.

Braves Attempt To Win Eighth

Fostoria Red Birds Threaten Win Streak.

Idle last night while the Ohio State league all-stars were trouncing the first-half champion Fremont Green Sox 12 to 6, at Fremont, the Mansfield Braves return to their home lot tonight to battle the third-place Fostoria Red Birds.

The Braves will be trying for their eighth straight victory of the second-half campaign, and their ninth win in a row on the Fairground diamond.

* * *

Only half a game out of first place, the Braves also will continue their battle to oust Fremont from the top ranking spot. Pat Patterson is scheduled for hill duty for the Braves.

Keltner, Smith, Bagby End Joe's Record

Largest Night Game Crowd Sees Yankees Edge Cleveland 4 to 3

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE BASEBALL SEASON lost some of its zest last night when Joe DiMaggio's phenomenal hitting streak came to an end, but the pennant aspirations of the New York Yankees may be better off.

Throughout the country millions of fans have been anxiously following the feat of the lean, poker-faced outfielder in rolling up an all-time major league record for hitting safely in 56 consecutive contests.

The biggest night crowd in baseball history and the largest throng of the present season, day or night, 67,468, jammed Cleveland's mammoth municipal stadium last night, more to watch DiMaggio than to see the two top contenders in the American league title settle their pennant problems.

* * *

In fact DiMaggio's hitting had become such a spectacular sideshow that it obscured the big circus itself, which was and still is the pennant race. The Yankees dropped a tough tilt to the Chicago White Sox Monday and nobody mourned, not even the Yanks. Joe had preserved his string.

* * *

Last night Joe didn't hit. He was stopped for the first time since May 15 by two great stabs by Ken Keltner and the pitching of Al Smith and Jim Bagby. But the Yankees won a 4-3 decision from the Indians and came close to locking up the championship.

Lefty Gomez kept the Tribe in check and put New York seven games in the lead.

Bob Feller will face the Yankees today in the hope of salvaging at least one game of the series. New York called on Marius Russo.

Another batting streak, a 24-game achievement by Cecil Travis, also was snapped yesterday. This one never received much attention because all eyes were turned on DiMaggio, but it was there just the same until Paul (Dizzy) Trout pitched the Detroit Tigers to a 7-1 triumph over the Washington Senators with a four-hit ration.

The season's best pitching streak, however, was preserved as the Cincinnati Reds downed the New York Giants, 5-4, in a night engagement for Elmer Riddle's 11th victory without defeat.

The only other National league game ended in a 2-2 tie between the Phillies and the Chicago Cubs when rain halted their struggle after six innings.

* * *

Dominic DiMaggio collected the hits his brother Joe needed as the Boston Red Sox whipped the White Sox, 7-4, and bumped Chicago out of the first division of the American league. Dominic hit a home run and a triple to drive in three runs

The St. Louis Browns edged past the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 3.

WALKER WINS

Joe Cook Sells Odd Golf Links

Sleepless Hollow Has Only One-Par Green.

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—News item: "Sleepless Hollow, Joe Cook's estate at Lake Hopatcong, N. J., has been sold to Logan Hills, Inc., for an undisclosed price."

Take a letter, Miss Shorthand to Logan Hills, Inc., Lake Hopatcong, N. J., Dear Logan Hills, Inc., colon paragraph.

Your's on the 16th inst. has not been received so contents have not been noted. In fact, it wasn't until the item came out in the paper that we knew that Joe had sold Sleepless Hollow. We write you in behalf of the millions of golfers who hope and trust that you will not tear down Joe's nine-hole course at Sleepless Hollow.

You take Pine Valley, Pebble Beach, Oakmont and all the other great golf courses, Logan Hills, Inc., but give us that nine-hole set-up that Joe built. If necessary, the nation's golfers will raise an undisclosed sum so that we can pay you an undisclosed price for the course.

* * *

Or maybe we could settle for the seventh hole. That's our favorite. We like that one almost as much as we like Joe when he comes out on the stage and says he is going to imitate four Hawaiians. Need I tell you, Logan Hills, Inc., that No. 7 is the only par one hole in the world? It is 160 yards long and all you have to do to make a hole in one is to land your tee shot on the green. Anywhere on the green.

Joe fixed it that way. He built the green in the shape of a funnel with the hole at the bottom and the ball circles the green a few times and then plop! Right into the can for an ace.

* * *

There are other features that must be preserved, especially that golf ball tree. Tell me, Logan Hills, Inc., did you ever slice or hook a golf ball into the rough and lose it? When that happens on a regular golf course, you have to dig out another ball. But when it happens on Joe's course, all you have to do is walk over to a golf ball tree and pick yourself one. Sometimes the balls have a slight greenish tint and Joe explains that they are not quite ripe yet.

And what about the 19th hole? Or rather the two 19th holes on Joe's course? One is called Schultz' and one is called Kelly's. The guys who shot bad go to Kelly's and drown their sorrows. The guys who shot good go to Schultz' and celebrate.

Thanking you for past favors, Logan Hills, Inc., and suggesting that if you will send an invitation for some undisclosed date, I will be glad to show up one undisclosed afternoon and take an undisclosed number of shots at the No. 7 green, I beg to remain, sincerely. H. F.

PURDUE'S ALL-AMERICAN LEADS NATIONAL POLL

CHICAGO—(INS)—Dave Rankin, Purdue's all-American end, was ahead today in the national poll to select a collegiate eleven which will oppose the professional champion Chicago Bears in the annual all-star football game in Soldier Field on Aug. 28.

Returns so far give Rankin the greatest number of votes with 108,116. George Franck, Minnesota halfback, is second with 106,258, and Tommy Harmon, the Michigan flash, third with 104,172.

Medalist Bows To Jack Kerns

Unknown Scores Upset In Publinks Tourney.

INDIAN CANYON, SPOKANE, Wash.—(AP)—Jack Kerns of Denver stretched out on the grass by the press table and commented:

"Well, he'd better be on his game, because I sure am."

Most of the sports writers didn't even know Kerns by sight then, but they did a couple of hour later.

He eliminated tournament favorite, Jimmy Clark, aircraft worker from Long Beach, Calif., in a quarter-final upset, 2 and 1, disposing of the medalist in this 20th annual National Publinks tourney.

Thus, the bespectacled Kerns, Denver insurance clerk, led the quartet of golfers into today's 36-hole semi-finals. Kerns plays another bespectacled parshooter, Art Pomy of Detroit.

In the lower bracket Bill Welch of Houston plays Pete Doll, Kentucky amateur champion from Louisville.

Ninth Inning Rally Sinks Shelby Club

Mathias led the victors with a perfect night at bat getting three for three. The Laubie brothers and Adams sparked the Cycle's seven-run attack.

LEAGUE ALL STARS DEFEAT FREMONT

FREMONT —(AP)— Six Fremont pitchers failed to silence the booming bats of the Ohio State league All-Stars last night as the first-half champions went down to a 12-6 defeat under a 16-hit barrage. Fremont bunched three hits and a walk off Chuck Byers of Mansfield in the 9th inning but the rally fell far short.

Drama In East.

Lusty action and romantic color are blended in "They Met in Bombay," Clark Gable's new co-starring picture with Rosalind Russell opening Saturday at the Ohio. Gable plays the role of a clever confidence man, recently cashiered out of the British army because of his escapades. While working in Bombay society circles he meets up with Rosalind Russell, another opportunist, and the battle of wits begins. When police become hot on their trail they take to the China Seas. Clarence Brown directed the cast which includes Jessie Ralph, Louis Alberni, Rosina Galli, Edward Ciannelli and Reginald Owen.

Personality Parade.

One of the biggest personality parades in recent film history will sing, dance and clown its way across the Madison screen beginning Saturday in "Time Out For Rhythm." Rudy Vallee, Ann Miller and Rosemary Lane head the cast that includes Glen Gray and his Casa Loma band, Eddie Durant's Rhumba orchestra and Allen Jenkins. Vallee plays a theatrical booking agent and Miss Miller, his new "discovery," who aims to further her own career at the expense of others. "Man Hunt," the co-attraction has Joan Bennett, Walter Pidgeon and George Sanders.

Mystery Thriller.

When a writer of mystery thrillers decides to solve a murder case without calling the police he encounters difficulties in "Footsteps in the Dark," showing at the Ritz with Erroll Flynn and Brenda Marshall in the leading roles. Because of all the mystery with which he surrounds himself the writer is accused of being unfaithful by his wife which adds to his worries in a time of turmoil. Ralph Bellamy, Alan Hale and Lee Patrick are in the cast. The "3 Mesquiteers" band together to preserve a stagecoach line from falling into the hands of thugs in "Pals of the Pecos," the second film.

Melodic Theme.

"Melody for Three," presenting Jean Hersholt in another "Dr. Christian" role at the Park theater, features Walter Woolf King and Fay Wray as the divorced parents of a child prodigy violinist, who are brought together by the kindly efforts of "Dr. Christian." Schuyler Standish, enacts the prodigy, and plays Brahm's Hungarian Dance No. 5 with a 75-piece orchestra as a stirring climax to the film. "Scattergood Baines," with Guy Kibbee, Carol Hughes and John Archer is the companion feature.

Comedy With Music.

Studded with songs and dances, "Sweetheart of the Navy," opens Friday at the Majestic with Eric Linden and Cecilia Parker in the starring roles. Linden plays a gallant young sailor who falls in love with a cabaret hostess while on shore leave. The latter needs money and tries to induce Linden to fight the champion of the fleet to raise the funds. When she finds out that this would interfere with the hero's chances at Annapolis the girl tries other means. Based on the popular First World war comedy, "23½ Hours Leave," the co-attraction, features Terry Walker and James Ellison.

GOES TO CLASS

PORTLAND, Ore. —(INS)— Jane Doe didn't do much out of the ordinary—just went to class at the Eastern Oregon College of Education — but she certainly caused a commotion. It just happened, however, that this Jane Doe was the real McCoy, a deer doe. The little deer wandered into a hall at the college, casually looked over the students in classrooms and wandered out again.

PROPELLER CRACKED

HARTINGTON, Neb. —(U.P.)— S. C. Munson, 60, a farmer, was standing too close to a whirling airplane propeller, and was struck on the head. The propeller broke in two places; Munson, never losing consciousness, needed thirty stitches to repair the injury.

Indiana Worker Travels 70 Miles A Day to His Job

GREENWOOD, Ind.—(INS)—All of the long-distance commuters don't live in New York suburbs.

For instance, there is the case of Raymond Blythe of Greenwood who drives 70 miles to his job five mornings a week and travels the same distance to get home. He's been at it two and one-half years.

Blythe leaves home and heads for Muncie at 5 o'clock each work day. He goes to work as a surface grinder in a Muncie factory at 7 a. m. The whistle blows for him at 3:30 and he is back at his country home by 5 p. m. He has been late to work only four mornings.

Blythe's gasoline bill is about $8 a week and he estimates that tires, oil and upkeep amounts to another $2 He believes he has traveled about 100,000 miles getting to Muncie and returning home.

The capital of West Virginia was located at Wheeling from 1863 to 1870 and from 1875 to 1885.

DEFECTIVE TEETH

NEW ORLEANS —(INS)— Selective service investigators blame the fish-and-milk bugaboo for knocking large numbers of Louisiana coastal residents out of the draft. Among the ichthyophagiacs (fish-eaters) in the state parishes bordering the Gulf of Mexico, the fear of drinking milk with fish dinners is believed to be one of the main reasons of the prevalence of defective teeth.

BIDDING LIFTS SOME STOCKS IN EARLY DEALING

Many Leaders Ignored; Summary Shows Construction at 1930 Peak.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — A little bidding here and there gave a lift to some stocks in today's market but many leaders were ignored. Ahead in early transactions were J. I. Case, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, Boeing, General Motors and Woolworth.

Inclined to limp were U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, American Telephone, and Chrysler.

Market observers saw further confirmation of the industrial swing in the summary of the F. W. Dodge corporation placing construction awards in 37 eastern states for the first half of 1941 at a peak since 1930 and 57 per cent larger than in the comparable period last year.

Other cheering items included: The federal reserve board estimated department store sales for the nation in the week ended July 12 exceeded the same 1941 week by 19 per cent; the National Machine Builders association announced June shipments in this field established a new record high; the Association of American railroads disclosed that, as of July 1, class 1 roads had 92,566 new freight cars on order, largest aggregate since 1923.

legionnaires and 15,000 metropolitan Frenchmen.

Casualties of the Vichy forces were estimated at about 2,000 killed and 2,000 to 3,000 seriously wounded.

It seemed clear that at the start of the campaign the Germans intended to aid the Vichy forces against their former allies. At least two German planes fought with them and during the first week German artillery officers arrived here by airplane.

The pilot of one of these planes parachuted to earth, wounded, 1¼ miles from my house in a mountain village. His co-pilot was killed. The wounded man left for Turkey Tuesday with the Vichy refugees.

During the first week I satisfied myself of the arrival of German artillery officers. Four unmistakable German officers were billeted at a hotel at which I then stayed, arriving late one night and departing early in the morning.

Each night German pilots stayed at a hotel at the village of Zahle and left for Rayak at dawn, until the British made the Beirut airport untenable.

DECLARES U. S. TO CARRY AID

Hopkins Says Nation Builds Ships To Take Goods Anywhere in World.

in the closest cooperation with your ministry of war transport and their representatives in America."

He said he could not comment on whether the United States was sending war supplies to Soviet Russia or to Turkey.

Hopkins said he would be here a week or ten days and then would fly home. He emphasized that his visit was concerned solely with the supply of war goods.

He told his British and American interviewers:

"We have launched our vast program of airplane production which is moving ahead very rapidly now. Great new factories are coming into production in the near future, particularly for heavy four-engine bombers."

The 1942 shipbuilding figure is about 2,000,000 tons better than United States yards turned out during the peak year of the World war's program, he said.

"We are convinced that between England and America we can build far more of these planes per month than Germany—and better ones," he said.

"As a general comment on production in America, I would say production is increasing every month. It is going to increase every month and it is going to be more extensive than anybody realizes.

"I am convinced that the British empire and the United States and those people who still are free can produce the mechanical equipment which is required in this war in vastly greater quantities than Hitler can, so that depressed peoples throughout the world who may be worrying how this war is going must know that this war just cannot be lost."

The purpose of his bomber flight across the North Atlantic, he said, was a survey of "the whole problem of our supply to the United Kingdom and Middle East."

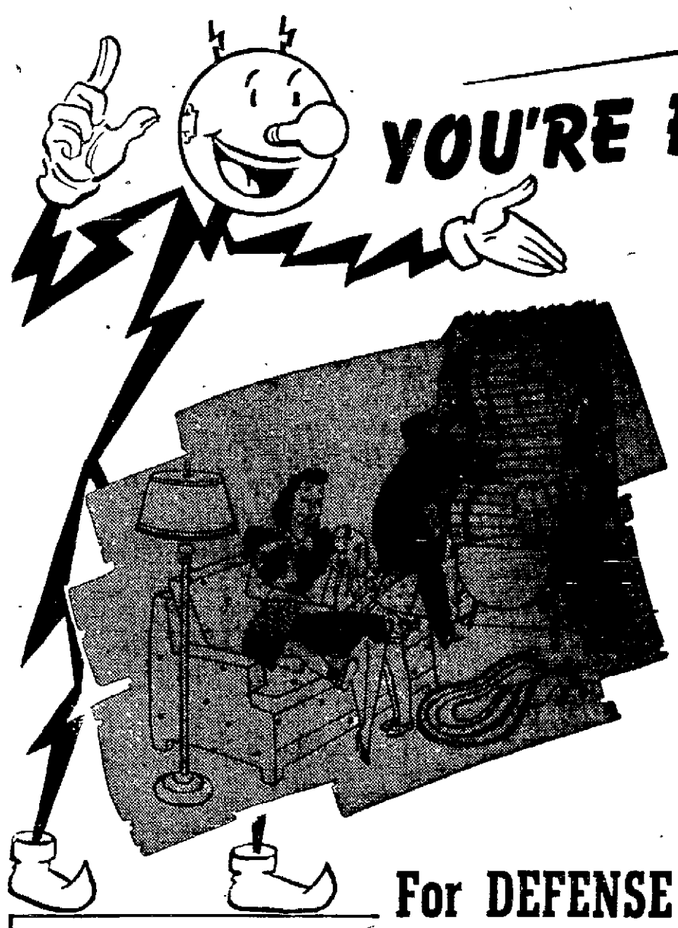
YOU'RE FORTUNATE...



There's no need for Blackouts here, because there's PLENTY OF POWER

For DEFENSE and for HOMES

So light up . . . and live electrically . . . for happier, healthier, more comfortable living . . .

In the territories served by The Ohio Public Service Company there is now no shortage of electric power. From our own generating plants and our inter-connections considerably more electric power is available than we have ever been called upon to deliver . . . even with defense factories operating 24 hours a day.

From all present indications we believe that we will have more electric power available than we will be called on to deliver for many months to come. We tell you this because we want all industry . . . defense and otherwise . . . to know that when they need more electric power The Ohio Public Service Company will be able to provide them with it instantly. Just as important we want the homemakers of our communities to know that they can continue to enjoy the comforts, conveniences, and carefree freedom of electrical living just as they always have in the past . . . to know that they can continue to add more electrical appliances, if desired, in their homes at any time and that there will be all the electric service they need to operate them.
